Q2. What is meant by ideology of Pakistan? State the basis of ideology of Pakistan?

Definition of ideology:

"A collection of beliefs, values, customs, aims, traditions, rituals which are common to all members of a society and are expressed in the lives of all members of that society is called ideology".

Ideology of Pakistan:

Islam is a complete code of life and covers all aspects of life. Muslims of sub – continent wanted to live their lives according to the teachings of Islam but in the presence of Hindu majority it was impossible. The Muslims wanted a separate state in which they could be in majority and promote the Islamic values. The real factor which sustain the state of Pakistan is the existence of a consciousness among the people belonging to each other because a large majority of them adhere to a common spiritual aspiration.

Basis of Pakistan Ideology:

Pakistan's ideology is based on two – nation theory which was a concrete fact and not a conception of any person. It was due to the teachings of Islam, which inspired the Muslims of India to claim that they were a separate nation. So Islam played the most important role in developing the idea of two nation theory, which has been termed as ideology of Pakistan.

The basis of ideology of Pakistan is Islam. The constituent components of Islamic ideology are:

(i) Doctrine of Faith:

Ideology of Pakistan is characterized by doctrine of faith in Allah, Prophet Hood, Angels, the Day of Judgment and all the revealed books of Allah. The most essential elements are the unicity of Allah and complete faith in the Prophet Hood of the last prophet.

(ii) Social dealings:

Mutual dealings or interaction, occupy an important place in the social system, Justice and equity constitute the social system of Islam.

(iii) Two Nation Concept:

The fundamental concept of ideology is that Muslims should get a separate identity. They should have a separate state where they could live according to Islamic rules. Muslims are different from Hindus in every aspect, their culture; civilization, customs and religion all are entirely different. The Muslims needed a free state for protection of their separate identity where they can live in accordance with their faith, belief and follow the Islamic codes. Thus the ideology of Pakistan which developed through the period of Muhammad Bin Qasim and others and followed by political leaders like Quaid – e – Azam was materialized in 1947.

✓ Q.3 Define ideology of Pakistan in the light of sayings of Quaid-e-Azam and Allama Iqbal?

Introduction:

In their statements Allama Iqbal and Quaid – e – Azam outlined the ideology of Pakistan. After minute observation they had come to a conclusion that Muslims and Hindus cannot live together. In their statements and addresses, they emphasized and elaborated the ideology of Pakistan.

Ideology of Pakistan in the light of Allama Iqbal:

Allama Iqbal was a famous poet, great thinker as well as a philosopher. He made the Muslims to realize to achieve their lost glory. In 1930, Iqbal presented his mature political opinion on political fate of Indian Muslims. He said,

"India is a sub – continent and not a country, where people belonging to different religions and speaking different languages are inhabited.

Muslim nation has its unique religious and cultural identity. All civilized Nations should respect religious principles, cultural identity and social Values of Muslims".

He further said:

I would like to see Punjab, North – West Frontier Province, Sindh and Balochistan amalgamated North West Muslim state appears to be final destiny of Muslim, at least of North West India.

Ideology of Pakistan in the light of Statements of Quaid-e-Azam:

Quaid – e – Azam Muhammad Ali Jinnah gave a practical shape to the ideology given by Allama Iqbal. Quaid – e – Azam's views on ideology were very clear.

While addressing the students of Islamia College, Peshawar, he said: "Our demand for Pakistan is not for a piece of land, instead we want to establish an experimental laboratory where we could practice a system based on Islamic principles.

In his address in the meeting of Muslim League on 23rd March 1940, he said:

Hinduism and Islam are not merely two religions but they are two Separate social systems. It would be a dream to think that Hindus and Muslims will form a common nation. I want to make it clear that both the nations belonged to two different civilizations and the foundation of these two civilizations is on such philosophies which are opposed to each other.

In January 1941, he said:

India has never been a single country or nation. The issue of sub – Continent is international. The differences on culture, social and economic values are of ideological nature.

The following words of Quaid – e – Azam sum up the ideology of Pakistan.

Pakistan had come into being the day, the first non – Muslim was converted into a Muslim in India.

The above sayings and statements largely prove that these great leaders wanted to establish an Islamic system as a code of life because they believed that it was the sole objective of Pakistan movement.

Q4. Explain two nation theory?

Introduction:

Theory means way of thinking and concept of life. Theory is the name of a system which describes the political, social and cultural way of life.

Two – Nation theory:

Two Nation Theory has its own particular meaning while considering the foundation of Pakistan. It means that there are two big nations of Muslim and Hindus in the sub-continent. Although these nations have passed a long time in the same territory but they could not mix up with each other due to difference of their moral values, religions, culture and other social traditions. This difference is so wide that they cannot live together in peace.

Islamic View:

Islam has its own belief and idea about life. It is quite different from other views of life in the world Muslims in the sub-continent consider themselves a nation which has its own civilization, moral values, history and economy. All these factors take guidance from the golden principles of Islam. These ideas are quite different from those of Hindus. After living together for centuries these nations could not show themselves a unity in any respect.

Quranic View:

Two-nation theory is not a new thing. It has only been stated in its view and clear form. The Muslims and Hindus are two different identities from the first day and they had never been living in a compromised atmosphere. The Quran has cleared this difference many times repeatedly. Allah says in "Surah Alkafrun", "oh! "Infidels" you have your own way and we have our own" Deen means way of life which includes civilization, culture, traditions, principles and values..

Views of Sir Syed Ahmed Khan:

Sir Syed Ahmed Khan is considered as the pioneer of the two nation theory. He said, "Those who live after me, would see that these two nations, Hindus and Muslims would not live together".

After the war of freedom 1857 Muslims fell victim to cruelty of English. Muslims were crushed educationally, politically and economically by both Hindus and English. In these circumstances, Sir Syed Ahmed Khan put forward all his genuine efforts to educate Muslims.

Views of Allama Iqbal:

Allama Iqbal was the first important figure who propounded the idea of separate homeland on the basis of two nation theory. In his Allahabad address 1930, he said.

"India is a continent of human beings belonging to different languages and Professing different religions. I therefore demand the formation of a consolidated Muslim state in the best interests of Muslims of India and Islam".

Through his lecture and verses he tried to establish the personality and identity of Muslims and made them feel to get back their dignified status of past times.

Hindu View:

Hindus believed that there is only one nation in India which is Hindus. They considered that the Hindus are the only masters of India. Mahatma Gandhi and Pandit Nehru were the leaders of Hindus. Nehru claimed that there are two powers in India which are Hindus and English. Gandhi said that India is the mother cow which cannot be divided into two powers.

Views of Quaid-e-Azam:

The Muslims were suffering from very bad circumstances but under the leadership of Quaid – e – Azam they got united. Quaid – e – Azam gave the two nation theory in very clear words. He said,

"The history of last 12 hundred years, has failed to achieve unity and has witnessed India always divided into the Hindu India and the Muslim India:

Quaid – e – Azam replied Nehru's challenge in words that there is also a third power in India, which is Muslims.

Existence of Congress:

In 1885 an English man Hume established the Indian National Congress as a political party. Its purpose was to collect people on a political platform and not stand against the English. But with time it proved to be the party which worked only for the interests of Hindus.

Existence of Muslim League:

Soon Muslims realized that they should have their own political party. So in 1906 the foundation of All India Muslim League was laid by Nawab Wajid Ali Khan, Nawab Mohsin – ul – Mulk and Nawab Saleem ullah of Dacca. Its aim was to educate and create political sense in Muslims alongwith looking after their rights.

Demand for Separate Homeland:

Initially Muslim League demanded separate identity in constitution but after observing the Hindu conspiracies they started to demand a separate homeland.

In 1930, in Allahabad's address Allama Iqbal gave the idea of a separate homeland for the first time so he is called the "Painter of Pakistan"

Q5. Describe the political and educational services of Sir Syed Ahmed Khan.

Sir Syed Ahmed Khan:

Early Life:

Sir Syed Ahmed Khan was born in a noble family of Dehli on October 17, 1871 AD. His father Syed Muhammad Muttaqi, an undaunted person, was disciple of a saint named Ghulam Ali Delhvi. Sir Syed Ahmed Khan called him grandfather to pay him honour. Maternal grandfather of Sir Syed Ahmed Khan was Khawajah Fareed-ud-din Ahmed. He was also a learned as a wise man. So we can say that Sir Syed Ahmed Khan inherited love for knowledge, sincerity for religion and ambition to achieve the past glory of Islam from his paternal and maternal forefathers. He acquired education in accordance with the old fashion and did his Dars-e-Nizami. His father died in 1936 A.D, when he was nineteen. He became an employee of East India Company as Sirdar of the Criminal Department in Sardar Amin's office in Dehli. In 1842 A.D. he became sub-judge. Due to this service he had to stay in Dehli for nine Years. He continued studying books. There he was benefited from Muhammad Ishaq, grandson of Shah Wali Ullah, and Maulana Mamlook Ali Nanotvi, a teacher of Maulana Qasim Nanotvi, during his stay in old Dehli, he compiled his book named Aathar-us-sanadeed (Relics of the ancients). In this book he compiled the historical background of the buildings, constructed during the rule of Mughals. He wrote biographies of a few prominent scholars of his age, poets and literary figures. During the war of independence he saved nearly twenty British officers and their children from the freedom fighters. In 1858 A.D the British Government awarded him a robe costing about one thousand rupees and a political pension of rupees two hundred per month for two generations.

Services of Sir Syed Ahmed Khan:

Sir Syed Ahmed Khan was a great reformer. He devoted his life for the service of humanity and especially for his nation. He led the Muslims in every aspect of life. He tried to remove the tension between the British Government and the Muslims. The detail of his scholastic, religious and national services are as follows:

Educational Services:

In spite of his official activities Sir Syed Ahmed Khan developed his life to the pursuits of knowledge. He wanted to make the education popular and it was his aim of life. He urged the Muslims to achieve education so that they might develop their political sense. He set up a school in Murad Abad, Murshad Abad and Ghazipur to provide the latest education to the Muslim. In 1864 A.D he established a scientific society to translate and generalize the Western Learning's. It became familiar with the name of scientific society in Aligarh afterwards. He introduced a weekly magazine under this society in Aligarh on March 30, 1866 A.D. Its name was Aligarh Institute Gezette. It was published with Urdu and English columns equally; in the beginning he tried to generalize the education regardless of any religion or belief. But when the Hindus opposed the Urdu language and Persian way of writing and demanded the implementation of Hindi language written in Deva Nagri, Sir Syed felt shocked; this event is known as Urdu Hindi controversy, in the history of Sub-continent. Hindus opposed Urdu because they look it as the language of Muslims. It exposed their culture. It became his firm belief that both the nations could not live together as their interest varies from each other so he concentrated all his potentialities to protect the interests of the Muslims. Accordingly, he established an organization named "Development Association for the Muslims of India" to educate them. This association established

M.A.O (Mohammad-an-Anglo Oriental) High school. It was inaugurated by William Meur. As Sir Syed Ahmed Khan was in Banaras. So it had been run by Maulvi Samee-Ullah Khan. In 1877 it was upgraded to a college.

Sir Syed Ahmed Khan tried his best to upgrade it to the University level but it was upgraded to the University level in 1921 A.D when Sir Syed had passed away. It has produced many Muslim leaders before and after the independence of Pakistan. After independence the Government of Bharat omitted the word Muslim from its name i.e. Muslim Aligarh University, due to its bigoted attitude.

Most important achievement of Sir Syed Ahmed Khan is the establishment of Muslim Educational Conference Organization. The main objective of this organization was to introduce schools and colleges all over the Sub-continent to educate the Muslims. It held its annual session at various places and succeeded to introduce many schools and colleges in different parts of the country.

Scholastic and Literary Services:

His services in the field of knowledge and literature are also unforgettable. He became an author of many books and works. He wrote many articles, magazines and books on various topics. History and religion were his favorite topics. His book Aathar-us-sanadeed (Relics of Ancient) is an important historical document. Sir Syed has compiled information about scholarly and researching manner. He compiled the biographies of some authors, poets and theologians too. He is known as an archeologist too. He was appointed an honorary member of Royal Asiatic Society of London. He compiled the history of Bijnore in which he described the critical events of Bijnore which he has observed. He made corrections in Aain-e-Akbari and Tareekh-e- Feroze Shahi. He got Tuzk-e-Jehangeeri published as well. He is the founder of a simple and easy style of expressing in Urdu. He expressed very complicated and scholarly topics in a simple but eloquent manner. A new era of Urdu literature came into being due to his work. Maulana Hali, Shibly Naumani and Muhammad Hussain Azad followed his mentioned style.

On December 24, 1870, he introduced a magazine named Tehzeeb-ul- Akhlaq. Its main objective was to convince the Muslims to acquire education, so that they might be able to live like a civilized and developed nation at the present juncture. Due to this educational service, Aden bra University bestowed upon him an honorary degree of doctorate in law. So, we can say that these scholastic and literary services are unforgettable in the history of knowledge and literature.

He used to say, Science will be in our right hand, Philosophy in the left hand and we shall put the crown of Lailaha-illallah Muhammad – ur – Rasool – Ullah on our hands.

Religious Services:

His age is known as the age of Christian missionaries. He always criticized and condemned the Christian missionaries and saved the Muslim from their evil designs. He argued in favor of Islam against the undue and unjust criticism of Christian missionaries against Islam. He published reasonable clarification in his magazines, Tehzeeb-ul-Akhlaq against the biased objection of Christian missionaries. He wrote a commentary of the Holy Quran in seven volumes. He expressed his views in a scientific manner. In his commentary he rationalized the Muslim beliefs and teachings. Due to rationalistic approach many religious scholars and theologians became suspicious about his Educational activities.

Sir William Meur, a British Governor of U-P-wrote a book named life of Muhammad (Sallallaho Alahe Wasallam) in which he gave unfair remarks about the Holy life of Hazrat Muhammad (Sallallaho Alahe Wasallam). In 1869 A.D Syed Qasim Mehmood s/o Sir Syed Ahmed Khan was granted a scholarship by the Government to acquire foreign education. Sir Syed left for England with his son. During his stay in London he studied the educational system of Cambridge University. He studied many books and wrote articles in which he rejected the false ideas William Meur, expressed in his book "Life of Muhammad (Sallallaho Alahe Wasallam)" with the help of offensive arguments. These articles were published with the title of Khutbat-e-Ahmadiyah afterwards. He tried his best to remove the tension existing between the Muslims and British Government. He wrote a commentary of Bible with the title of Tabbe-ul-Kalam as well. In this way he tried to prove that there is great similarity in Christian and Muslim beliefs. He wrote a booklet, named, "Tuam Ahl-e-Kitab, in which he explained to the Christian that the Holy Quran declares their slaughtered animals lawful for the Muslims.

He wrote Risalah Asbab Baghawat-e-Hind. In this booklet he declared the British liable for the war of 1857 A.D.

By writing such books and works he tried to reduce and remove the biased ideas of Christians about Islam. Majority of the religious scholars differed the religious ideas of Sir Syed Ahmed Khan. A group of theologians declared Sir Syed as infidel and spy of the British and a part of anti-Islamic element. However his works and services show his sincerity for the Muslims welfare.

Political Services:

Sir Syed Ahmed Khan aimed at achieving the independence for the Muslims of Sub-continent by introducing above mentioned educational and social reforms. He wanted to lead the Muslims to the way of political freedom by this reformation. He wanted to remove misunderstandings between the Muslims and the Britishers. He wrote a booklet named Risalah Asbab Baghawat-e-Hind, published it and distributed it among the members of British parliament and Government authorities. In this way, he wanted to improve their trends about the local people of the sub-continent. In the booklet he suggested to give maximum representation to the people of India. It was due to his effort that Indians were granted the membership of Viceroy's council and Sir Syed was appointed as its member for four years.

Sir Syed forbade the Muslims to participate in politics. That is why he advised the Muslims not to join Indian National Congress because still the Muslims were lacking behind in education. He wanted that Muslims should become educationally mature before taking part in politics. Secondly, the representative Government demanded by congress was not suitable for India due to its special circumstances. Sir Syed clarified the British that there are two big nations in the sub- continent. They are the Hindus and the Muslims. So we can say that it was Sir Syed among the Muslim leaders who proved the Muslims of Sub-continent a separate nation. In this way he became the founder of two-nation theory and demandant of separate electorate for the Muslims. On the basis of same theory the Muslims of the sub- continent succeeded to achieve a homeland of their own. This man possessing multi-qualities passed away in 1889 A.D. When he was eighty-one. He was buried in the courtyard of the mosque situated in Aligarh University.

Joining Pakistan:

In 1947, at the time of partition it was decided that a royal "Jirga" will decide the accession of Balochistan with either India or Pakistan. Congress left no stone unturned to convince the Jirga to accede to India but its efforts failed and the jirga announced its decision in favour of Pakistan.

Q8. Discuss the role of Punjab in Pakistan.

Introduction:

The Punjab was a big province by population as well as its resources, but both the British and Hindus tried to exploit the Muslims of Punjab. This province played an important role in the existence of Pakistan.

Role of Allama Iqbal:

Allama Iqbal was the member of provincial council of Punjab. In 1930, he gave the sketch of a separate homeland for Muslims. That is why he is called the painter of Pakistan. The historic session, in which the Pakistan resolution was passed, was held at Lahore on 23rd March 1940. Lahore is the heart of Punjab. In the elections of 1945 – 46 the Muslim League won 100% seats in central assembly and 90% seats in provincial assembly in Punjab.

Role of Muslim Scholars:

The Muslim scholars and saints of Punjab played an important role in Pakistan movement and prepared Muslims for freedom struggle. Maulana Shabbir Ahmed and Maulana Zafar Ahmed toured several places to get support for Muslim League.

Role of Muslim Students:

The Muslims students of Punjab lifted this movement. They organized Punjab Muslim Student Organization. They started civil disobedience and the government was shaken.

Role of Muslim Women:

The women of Punjab actively participated in struggle for Pakistan. They rendered valuable services and during the civil disobedience movement hoisted the flag of Muslim League on Punjab Secretariat in place of Union Jack. Begum Jahanara Shanawaz from Punjab represented Muslim women at the three round table conferences held in London and was the first ever woman to make a speech in London's Guild Hall.

Conclusion:

The Muslim of Sindh took an active part in Pakistan movement. They united themselves and provided full support to their leaders at all levels.

Q10. Elucidate the role of Muslim League in the struggle for Pakistan. Also describe the reasons for its inception and its aims and objectives.

All India Muslim League:

For the protection of the political rights of the Muslims in the sub – continent and to fulfill their benefits and demands, a political party was established in 1906 which is known as All India Muslim League in the history of sub-continent. It was a political party which not only united the Muslims but also inclined them towards the political struggle for their rights. After the formation of this political party, the Muslims were able to explain their demands.

Establishment of All India Muslim League:

When the concept of the separate elections of Nawab Mohsin-ul-Mulk was accepted, then it gave the Muslims a help to make their clear plans for political struggle, hence a plan was made for the formation of a political party for the Muslims. At the end of annual Muhammedan Educational Conference in Dacca in 1906, Muslims leaders from the Muslims. At the end of annual Muhammedan Educational Conference in Dacca in 1906, Muslims leaders from the different parts of sub-continent attended a meeting, convened by Nawab Salimullah Khan. In this meeting, the Muslim leaders thoroughly discussed the problems of the Muslims in general and the situation created by the Hindu after the partition of Bengal in 1905. It was decided to setup a political party to protect and safeguard the rights of the Muslims. The meeting was headed by Nawab Waqar-ul-Mulk and attended by the scholars like Maulana Muhammad Ali Jauhar, Maulana Zafar Ali Khan, Hakim Ajmal Khan and some other prominent leaders. A political party "All India Muslim League" was setup on 30th December 1906. Aligarh was made its headquarters, Sir Agha Khan was elected the first president of the Muslim League and Syed Hassan Bilgram was selected as the first general secretary of the Muslim league.

Causes of Establishment of Muslim League:

The causes for the establishment of Muslim league in the sub- continent were following:

- i. After the death of Sir Syed Ahmed Khan in March 1898, the Muslims realized that they should made the efforts after making a political unity for the protection of their collective benefits.
- ii. In 1905 after the partition of Bengal, agitation and the success of Simla deputation, the Muslims decided to unite politically.
- iii. The demand for the separate elections made by Nawab Mohsin- ul-Mulk was accepted which gave the Muslims a political stability in thoughts.
- iv. The Muslims realized fully the need of unity and the formation of a political party for the protection of their rights.
- v. The members of Simla deputation stressed a political collection of the Muslims after making mutual discussion on this issue.

The above causes developed the ways for the formation of Muslim League and Muslims formed a political party in 1906 which helped them in the practical struggle for Pakistan.

Aims and Objectives of All India Muslim League:

The aim and objectives of All India Muslim League were following which developed a political concept among the Muslims and inclined them to take part in the politics of India.

- i. To establish good friendly relations between the British government and the Muslims and to remove misunderstanding from the minds of the British against the Muslims.
- ii. To coordinate with other nations and political parties in the sub-continent for common welfare.
- iii. To protect the rights of the Muslims by seeking co-operation of the government and other political parties.
- iv. To protect the political rights and the benefits of the Muslims and to inform the government about the needs of the Muslims.
- v. To make efforts for the unity of the Muslims so that the Muslims would get a suitable position.
- vi. To arrange the political theories and social behavior of the Muslims in organized form.

The Role of Muslim League in the Struggle for Pakistan:

All India Muslim League was appeared as the political party in the sub-continent which made the struggle of the Muslims in practical organized form. This party produced unity among the Muslims league and protected their social rights which created a condition for the demand of Pakistan. Muslim league played a great role in the struggle for Pakistan. The role of Muslim league in the struggle of Pakistan can be explained as follows:

- i. Protection of rights.
- ii. Political Settlement with congress
- iii. Number of Muslims
- iv. The Muslim seats
- v. Proportion Representation

(i) Protection of Rights:

As a representative party of Muslims, the Muslim league started to take practical improvements for the protection of the rights of the Muslims of the sub-continent and to apprise the government of their problems and demands. Muslims adopted a balanced attitude to join hands with the Hindus to oust the British from the sub-continent on one hand and on the other hand it struggled to improve the relations between the Muslims and the British government.

(ii) Political Settlement with Congress:

Quaid-e-Azam Muhammad Ali Jinnah joined Muslims league in October 1913. Due to his efforts Muslim League and Congress party entered into a political settlement known as "Lucknow Pact". According to this pact congress accepted the independent separate status of the Muslims and recognized the separate electorate for Indian Muslims.

(iii) Number of Muslims:

Due to the efforts of Muslim League, the number of the Muslims in the central Legislative Assembly was agreed to one third (1/3). Thus the Muslims got a right to represent in the Assembly and to make demands for their rights.

(iv) The Muslim Seats:

Due to the efforts of Muslims League, particular Muslim seats were reserved for the Muslims in central and provincial assemblies. Thus the Muslims had an idea that they would gain some seats in the assemblies. On the two large Muslim provinces Bengal and Punjab, the strength of Muslims in the legislative assembly was established.

(v) Proportionate Representations:

Due to the effort of Muslim League, in the provinces where the Muslims were in a minority, their representatives in proportion to their population was doubled. It means that a balance system in representation was accepted due to the efforts of Muslim league. Hence the representation of the Muslims in the legislative assemblies in both the provinces of Bengal and Punjab became stable.

Thus due to the political efforts of Muslim League, an organized plan was developed as a political party of the Muslims in the sub-continent. It provided a platform for the practical struggle for freedom. Due to these efforts the procedure of the demand for Pakistan and the partition of India was completed. On 14th August, 1949 a separate state Pakistan came into being for the Muslims of the sub-continent.

Q11. Write a short note on Lucknow Pact.

Lucknow Pact:

Introduction:

The Indian political scene took a new turn in 1913 when the Muslim League adopted the principle of self rule for India as its goal which brought the Congress and Muslim League close together.

Muslim League Changes its Course:

In 1915, the events that took place like the partition of Bengal, the Balkan war etc gave a severe shock to the Muslims and ultimately changed the course of Muslim League.

Efforts for a United Political Front:

The Indian politics turned over a new leaf with the change in Muslim politics. The leaders of both congress and Muslim League agreed that they should cooperate with each other and compel the government to accept their demands.

The Lucknow Pact:

In December 1916, the Muslim League and Congress, for the first time in the history of India held their sessions in Lucknow to chalk out a format to accomplish Hindu-Muslim unity. The Muslim League session was presided over by Quaid-e-Azam while Amdeka Charan Maujamdar presided over the Congress session. Mainly due to the efforts of Quaid-e-Azam who was a staunch advocate of Hindu Muslim Unity an agreement on a scheme of political reforms was reached between Congress and Muslim League known as "Lucknow Pact".

Resolutions of Lucknow Pact:

The important of agreements of the pact are as follows:

- Separate electorate for Muslims:

The agreement decided to have separate electorate for Muslims.

- Seats for the Muslims:

1/3 seats in the central legislative were reserved for the Muslims.

- Adjournment Motion:

It was also decided that the members of the assemblies shall have the right to present adjournment motion.

- Provincial Autonomy:

Provincial autonomy shall be given to the provinces and communal problem shall be solved.

- Protection of Minorities:

Seats shall be reserved for the Muslims in those provinces where they were in minority and protection shall be given to Hindus in Muslim majority provinces.

- No bill to be presented without Approval:

No bill or resolution shall be presented in the assembly which may be affecting the interests of any of the two communities without the approval of the concerned group.

Importance of Lucknow Pact:

- i. The Lucknow Pact was a great achievement of the Hindu and Muslim Leaders and particularly of Quaid-e-Azam who was hailed as an ambassador of Hindu Muslim Unity.
- ii. The main feature of the pact was that the Hindus for the first time acknowledged the Muslims as a separate nation.
- iii. The right of separate electorate of Muslims was accepted by the Congress.
- iv. An agreed solution to the constitutional problems of both Hindus and Muslims was found.

Conclusion:

The Lucknow Pact proved to be the only beacon light on the political horizon of India. If this sense of cooperation could have been continued a better atmosphere of understanding and cooperation could have been generated. This pact demonstrated the force of unity and had it been further pushed the political struggle could have marked the beginning of a new era

Q12. Write a detailed note on Khilafat Movement.

Introduction:

The origin of Khilafat Movement lies in the concept of ruler ship formulated by Quran. After Khulfa – e – Rashidin the title of Caliph continued to be used by many like Umayyads, Abbasides and finally Ottoman Sultans.

The Ottoman Empire was the only Muslim power which had maintained its authority. The Muslims of subcontinent always rendered the Khilafat and Caliph as pious and important.

Turkey was defeated in First World War and the Ottoman Empire was disintegrated.

The Khilafat Movement:

The disintegration of Ottoman khilafat aroused acute sentiments of anger and grief among the Muslims of South Asia as they considered the caliphate as a symbol of Muslim unity. They launched a strong movement under the leadership of Maulana Muhammad Ali Jauhar which is called Khilafat Movement. He forwarded a threefold claim.

- i. The Khilafat shall not be dismembered but that the Khilafat shall have sufficient temporal power for the defence of faith.
- ii. The Jazirat – ul – Arab should remain under exclusive Muslim control without mandate or protection.
- iii. The Khalifa shall remain the warden of Holy places.

Treaty of Severes:

In the meantime on 15 May 1920 the "Treaty of Severes" was published which was a great shock to Muslims. According to this treaty, the Arab countries were to be independent of Ottoman Empire and Syria, Palestine and Mesopotamia were put under French and British mandates.

Non Co-operation Movement:

On the advice of Mr Gandhi non – co-operation movement was started. In this regard the following steps were taken.

- i. Surrender of British titles.
- ii. Refusal to attend government functions.
- iii. Withdrawal of all students from schools and colleges.
- iv. Boycott of British law – courts by lawyers.
- v. No service by Indians in British Army.
- vi. No participation in coming elections.

Hijrat Movement:

One of the features of khilafat movement was migration of Muslims from India to Afghanistan.

Civil Disobedience:

The Khilafat Movement warned the British government that they would start civil disobedience as a result of which Ali brothers were arrested. They were tried at Karachi and were sentenced to two years rigorous imprisonment.

The last phase of Khilafat:

The Turks took a different approach to Khilafat. At this critical moment Mustafa Kamal emerged as a great Military leader and expelled the Greeks from Smyrna.

Conclusion:

The Khilafat Movement did not achieve apparent success but it had a great impact on subsequent Indian political struggle.

Q13. Write a note on Simon Commission.Introduction:

In November 1927, the British Government announced the appointment of a constitutional commission headed by Sir John Simon to examine the pace of constitutional advance in India.

Members:

The commission consisted of the following members of parliament.

- i. Sir John Simon
- ii. Lord Viscount
- iii. Lord Barn
- iv. Edward Cadger
- v. Stephen Walsh
- vi. Richard Lane – Fox
- vii. Vernon Hartshorne

Simon Report:

The report published in 1930 in two volumes. Following are some recommendations of the report.

- i. Federal type of the government should be observed.
- ii. Diarchy should be abolished.
- iii. Governors were to be empowered.
- iv. The Prime Minister would be free from all control by the governor.
- v. N. W. F. P to be given a legislative council.
- vi. The question of separating Sindh to be examined.
- vii. Federal Assembly to be elected by Provincial council.
- viii. The new constitution would be able to develop by itself.

Conclusion:

The report was unanimously condemned by all Indians.

Q14. Write a short note on Nehru Report.Introduction:

An all party conference was held in 1927 – 28 in Dehli to prepare a draft constitutional reform as a challenge to Simon commission. A committee was formed by Motilal Nehru to frame the future constitution.

Hindu Members:

- i. Sir Tej Bahdur Sapru.
- ii. G.R Pardhan
- iii. N .A Joshi

Muslim Members:

- i. Sir Ali Imam
- ii. Shoaib Qureshi

Salient Feature:

The report of this commission is called Nehru report. It was published in August 1928. Its salient features are as follows:

- i. Hindi should be made official language.
- ii. Unitary form of government to be established in center.
- iii. Full provincial status to be given to NWFP and Baluchistan.
- iv. Foreign officials, army and defence should be placed under the direct control of parliament and viceroy.

- v. Separate electorate to be replaced by joint electorates.
- vi. Full responsible government on model of constitution of self-government dominions to be introduced.

Amendments by Quaid – e – Azam:

Quaid – e – Azam proposed three amendments in Nehru report in December 1928.

- i. 1/3 Muslim representation in central legislature.
- ii. Muslim representation in Punjab and Bengal on basis of population.
- iii. Residual powers to be given to provinces.

Hindus rejected these amendments and the Muslims rejected the Nehru report. As a result Quaid – e – Azam gave his famous fourteen points in 1929.

Q15. Write down the fourteen points of Quaid – e – Azam with reference to Nehru report.

Nehru Report:

In 1927, the British government declared that the collective constitutional proposals were brought before the legal experts of the British government. The Congress decided to call a conference of all political parties in India. In 1928, a meeting of all parties was held but no decision was made. The Congress established a committee under the presidency of Pundit Moti Lal Nehru to prepare a collective constitutional plan. The committee presented a report in 1928 which is called as "Nehru Report". In this report, the Delhi proposals were rejected, further the separate right of elections of the Muslims which the congress had accepted in the Luknow Pact 1916 was proposed to be rejected. Quaid-e-Azam Muhammad Ali Jinnah refused to accept Nehru Report.

Fourteen Points of Quaid-e-Azam:

After the publication of Nehru report in 1928, the Muslims totally realized the prejudiced behaviour of the congress against the Muslims. It made clear the Hindu enmity towards the Muslims. In this report, all those provisions of Luknow Pact 1916 were rejected which approved for the protection of the Muslims rights. Nehru report rejected the principle of separate elections and rejected all those protection which the Muslims thought necessary for their identity. Quaid-e-Azam Muhammad Ali Jinnah refused to accept Nehru report and prepared a model for the guiding principles for making the constitution which consisted of fourteen points. These guiding principles became popular as the fourteen points of Quaid-e-Azam in history.

Summary of Fourteen Points:

Fourteen points of Quaid-e-Azam Muhammad Ali Jinnah are as follows:

- i. The form of the future constitution should be federal, with the residuary power vested in the provinces.
- ii. A uniform measure of autonomy shall be granted to all provinces.
- iii. All legislatures in the country and other elected bodies shall be constituted on the definite principle of adequate and effective representation of minorities in every province without reducing the majority in any province to a minority or even equality.
- iv. In the central legislature, the Muslims representation shall not be less than one third.
- v. The representation of the communal groups shall continue to be by separate electorates, provided that it shall be open to any community, at any time, to abandon to separate electorate in favour of joint electorate.
- vi. Any territorial redistribution that might at any time be necessary shall not in any way affect the Muslim majority in the Punjab, Bengal and the North West Frontier Province.
- vii. Full religious liberty, that is, liberty of belief, worship and observance, propaganda, association and education, shall be guaranteed to all communities.
- viii. No bill or resolution or any part thereof shall be passed in the legislature or any other elected body if three fourths of the members of any community in that particular body oppose it as being injurious to the interests of that community or in the alternative, such other method is devised as may be found feasible and practicable to deal with such cases.
- ix. Sindh should be separated from the Bombay presidency.
- x. Reforms should be introduced in the North – West Frontier Province and Balochistan on the same footing as in other provinces.
- xi. Provision should be made in the constitution giving the Muslims adequate share along with the other Indians in all the services of the state and in local self-governing bodies having due regard to the requirements of efficiency.
- xii. The constitution should embody adequate safeguards for the protection of the Muslim culture and for the protection and promotion of Muslims education, language, religion, personal laws, and Muslim charitable institution and for their due share in the grants in aid giving by the state and by self-governing bodies.
- xiii. No Cabinet, either central or provincial, should be formed without three being at least one third of Muslims ministers.

- xiv. No change shall be made in the constitution by the central legislature except with the concurrence of the states constituting the Indian Federation.

Importance of Fourteen points:

Quaid-e-Azam Muhammad Ali Jinnah was a great leader. He was well aware about the political conditions of South Asia. Due to his enthusiastic leadership, the Muslims of the sub-continent got a chance to unite at a platform. He remained with the Muslims in their struggle for their political rights. He made great efforts for the rights of the Muslims. Allama Iqbal once said about the enthusiastic leadership of Quaid-e-Azam.

نگہ بلند سخن دلنوازاں پُرسوز
یہی ہے رختِ سفرِ میرِ کارواں کے لئے
(علامہ اقبال)

“Allama Iqbal says that the visible sense, kind speaking and sensitive behaviour are the baggage of a leader of a nation”.

Fourteen points of Quaid-e-Azam have great importance in the struggle for Pakistan. In Nehru report there was the protection of the rights of the Hindus while in fourteen points not only the issue of the rights of the Muslims was pointed out but also a suggestion was made for the protection of the rights of all religious groups. In spite of this the congress rejected these points. The Hindu leader of Hindu Mahasabha Dr. M. N. Roy called these points against the soul of Indian nationality. He also called them the voluptuousness of the separation of Sindh.

Fourteen points of Quaid-e-Azam were actually the point of separation of thoughts of the two nations in the sub-continent.

Fourteen points of Quaid-e-Azam are the valuable proof of the political observance of Quaid-e-Azam.

In fourteen points of Quaid-e-Azam, the suggestion was made for the protection of all minorities in India.

The protection of Muslim rights was given in these fourteen points.

The best advice was given for the management and progress of Sindh in these fourteen points.

In these points not only the religious freedom for the Muslims was protected but the same aspect was suggested for all the nations in India.

In these fourteen points a balanced system of government was proposed for India.

The principle for electorate system was also explained in these fourteen points.

In these fourteen points it was advised to adopt same administrative steps for the progress of Baluchistan and N.W.F.P.

The former Prime Minister of Pakistan Chaudry Muhammad Ali wrote in critical appreciation of the history of Indo-Pakistan in his book “The Emergence of Pakistan”.

On making the critical appreciation on the past, every intellectual Hindu would become puzzled that the Hindu leaders had rejected such right and balanced demands in the fourteen points of Quaid-e-Azam. (Chaudry Muhammad Ali)

Q16. Describe Allama Iqbal's Presidential address at Allahabad.

Allahabad Address:

Introduction:

Allahabad Address is known as the vision of Pakistan because Allama Iqbal gave the suggestion from the Muslim league's platform, which later becomes the sole purpose of the Muslims of India. It was due to this address that the Muslims got themselves a separate homeland.

Background:

On sketching the background of Allahabad Address we will come to know that in the beginning, the Muslims wanted to live with the Hindus and establish friendship but later these relations were very disappointed for the Muslims and they started thinking of separation. The Hindu wanted to overcome the Muslims on the basis of majority, this friendship continued as long as the Hindu interest remained, and finished abruptly after that. The Hindu wanted to abolish the facility of separate electorate of the Muslims to continue friendship. Quaid-e-Azam accepted their demand and separate electorate was abolished in Delhi proposals.

The Hindu-Muslim Unity would have continued but due to the publications of Nehru Report, it completely finished. The dream, of Hindu-Muslims Unity finished forever Allama Iqbal saw that there was not much time left for friendly and the Muslims had to select new method to safeguard the Muslim rights.

Ideas of Partition of India:

Allama Iqbal idea was not a new one. Before this address such ideas were presented.

- In 1890, Abdul Haleem Sharar, for the 1st time presented his idea about partition but, it failed.

- In 1917 in Stockholm conference, the Aligarh professor brothers, give the similar idea, mainly Abdul Jabbar Khair and Abdul Satar Khair but it did not gather any attention.
- In 1920, Abdul Qadir Bilgrami presented an idea through the Badayun's published Newspaper Zulqarnain. He wrote an article entitled "An open letter to Gandhi" in which he represented his idea which did not succeed.
- In 1923, Dera Ismail Khan's leader, Saradar Guz Khan presented this idea again but it failed to succeed.

Political Situation at the Time of Allahabad Address:

The Nehru Report Publication ended this Hindu-Muslims Unity forever. In its reply, the Quaid-e-Azam presented his fourteen points which divided an idea into two parts the Hindus wanted the Nehru Report while the Muslims were in favor fourteen points. The 1st Round table conference was held from 12th Nov 1930 to 19th Jan 1931. Congress boycotted it while the Muslims league came to attend it. Allama Iqbal was convinced with the events that due to the studhorses of Hindus, the friendship could not be adopted and the only solution to this was partition.

Vision of Pakistan:

The Muslim leagues Annual session was held on 29th Dec 1930 at Allahabad which was presided over by Dr. Allama Muhammad Iqbal. In his long speech, he compared the Islamic view of life and the western idea about life. He said, "India is a Sub-continent of human beings belonging to different languages and professing different religions on the basis of constitution the conception of a homogenous India is to prepare its civil bar. I therefore demand the formation of a consolidated Muslim state in the best interests of the Muslim of Islam and South-Asia. The formation of a consolidated North-West Indian Muslim state appears to be final destiny of the Muslims at least North-West India."

Importance of Allahabad Address:

The Muslims did not like the suggestion of partition immediately because the Muslims still wanted to live together with the Hindus and enhance friendship. The newspaper also did not take notice of this address and wrote few lines about it. Its importance was felt at the Round table conference where Quaid-e-Azam and Maulana Muhammad Ali Jauhar went to attain Muslim rights. The Muslims became dejected with the Hindu and decided its solution as the partition.

Pakistan Movement and Allahabad Address:

The Pakistan Movement started in 1937, reeling in view the Iqbal's vision and chaudry Rahmat Ali's Idea of 1933. At that time the congress Ministries attained a harsh attitude towards the Muslims and the Muslims decided to separate starting the Pakistan Movement. Apart from the Muslims of Muslim majority provinces, Muslim minority provinces took active part in 1938; a resolution was passed from Sindh demanding partition. In 1940 Pakistan Resolution was passed. On 14th August 1947, the Muslim got the homeland of their own.

Q17. Write a short note on round table conferences.

As a result of the failure of Simon commission and civil disobedience movement by Indians the British government realized that no constitution would be successful without the co-operation of Indians. So they invited all leaders to London for a series of Round table conference on constitutional issue. It held three sessions in 1930, 1931 and 1932.

First Round Table Conference 1930:

The first session of Round table conference opened in London on November 12, 1930 and closed on 19 January 1931. Aga Khan was the elected head of Indian delegation while Muslims were represented by Maulana Muhammad Ali and Quaid - e - Azam. Congress did not participate in this conference as they were of the opinion that discussion must not be done on responsible self-government but a constitution must be shaped for free India.

Second Round Table Conference 1931:

It opened on September 07, 1931 and closed on December 01, 1931. Allama Iqbal was also invited to attend it. Congress was represented by Gandhi. This conference also failed as Gandhi insisted on depriving Muslims of their legitimate rights while Muslims stuck to their demands.

Third Round Table Conference 1932:

The third and the last conference began on November 17, 1932 and closed on December 24, 1932. It was short as compared to the other two conferences. Congress was again absent and the others had lost interest in it.

Q18. Write a note on Congress Ministers.

The elections to the legislature of autonomous provinces were held in February and March 1937. Both congress and Muslim League participated in it. Congress won majority in many provinces and was successful in forming ministers in eight out of the eleven provinces. They resumed the office and the interim government resigned. The congress did not form collation ministries with Muslim League and the Muslim suffered the following ill-treats in these ministries.

Impact of Congress Ministers:

i. Hindu Muslim Riots:

Hindu Muslim riots were common in congress rule. The Hindus were free to assault Muslims and set their property on fire.

ii. Ban on religion:

A ban was put on Islam. Bands were played in front of mosques cow slaughter was banned.

iii. Vande Matram:

The Muslim students were forced to sing Vande Matram, which showed hatred towards Muslims. They were also forced to put a tilak on their forehead.

iv. Hosting of three coloured flag:

Immediately after taking over the government the congress ordered to put three coloured flag along with Union Jack, just to stress that there are only two powers in India i.e. The British and the Congress.

v. Injustice in government employment:

The doors of the government employment were closed for the Muslims.

vi. Worshipping Gandhi:

The students were forced to pay respect and homage to Gandhi's picture in Schools assemblies.

vii. Expansion of Hindi Language:

Hindi was enforced as official language in all provinces.

viii. Warda Taleemi Scheme:

This scheme was planned to sway Muslim children against their ideology and tell them that all people living in India were Indians.

ix. Vidya Mandar Scheme:

According to this scheme Mandir education was made compulsory.

x. Patronization of Hindu Festivals:

All the Hindu festivals like Dewali, Shivsatri, Holi etc were patronized.

xi. Eradication of Muslim culture:

All efforts were made to humiliate Islam and Muslims.

xii. Muslim Mass Contact Campaign:

The main purpose of this scheme was to crush the popularity of Muslim League amongst Muslims.

Day of Deliverance:

In 1938, Muhammad Ali Jinnah was given the title of Quaid – e – Azam. When congress ministers resigned in 1939. Quaid – e – Azam asked the Muslims to celebrate December 22, 1939 as a day of deliverance and thanks giving in token of relief from the tyranny and oppression of Congress rule.

Q19. Describe Pakistan resolution or Lahore resolution and its importance in the struggle for Pakistan.

Lahore Resolution or Pakistan Resolution 1940:

All India Muslims League presented a resolution for the demand of a separate state for the Muslims of the sub-continent on the basis of the Two Nation Theory in its 27th annual meeting on 23rd March 1940 at Minto Park Lahore which is known as Lahore Resolution or Pakistan Resolution. This resolution was presented by the chief minister of Bengal Maulvi A.K. Fazal-ul-Haq. Chaudry Khaliq-uz-Zaman first agreed to this proposal then the other prominent leaders were also agreed to it who belonged to different provinces. This resolution was accepted on 24th March 1940.

Summary of Pakistan Resolution:

Muslim League gave its demands in the final form in this annual meeting and arranged a programme for the reaction against the improvement made by the British in India. The important points of Pakistan resolution can be explained as follows:

- i. Geographically contiguous units are demarcated into regions which should be so constituted, with such territorial adjustment as may necessary, that the areas in which the Muslims are numerically in majority as in the North- Western and Eastern zones of India.
- ii. Adequate, effective, and mandatory safeguards should be specifically provided in the constitution for minorities for the protection of their religious, cultural, economic, political, administrative, and other rights.
- iii. The Federal scheme which has been mentioned in Government of India act 1935 is nearly unsuitable and unapplicable due to the particular conditions of the country and it cannot be accepted for the Muslims India in any case.

- iv. A power is given to the working committee of Muslim league to arrange a constitutional scheme by which the Muslims state becomes able to control the Defence, Foreign Affairs, Communication, Custom, and other matters in their regions.

Importance of Pakistan Resolution:

Pakistan resolution was the beginning of the struggle for independence because; the Muslims were proved to be a nation with great ideals. In this resolution it was also proposed to implement some constitutional improvement in the majority holding regions of the Muslims. After this, a way was completely developed for the establishment of Pakistan because the social principles of the Muslims and their point of view in Indian politics became clear, due to this; Muslim league had converted into a very active political party of the Muslims and its started struggle to achieve a common cause. In Pakistan Resolution, it was decided collectively that the Muslims would not accept any plan which did not give them independence in those parts of India where they were in majority than the Hindus such as in the North-Western and Eastern zones of India. The struggle for independence became more effective after Pakistan resolution which can be explained as follows:

- i. In 1942, Cripps proposals were presented in which it was declared that the independence would be given to the sub- continent after the end of Second World War. The new constitution would be of Federal type in which the protection would be provided to all minorities, provincial autonomy would also be given. In these proposals, the decision was made after the consideration of the demands of Muslim League.
- ii. After the departure of Cripps Mission, "Quit India Movement" was started by the Congress in which the government property was destroyed in anti-social activists of the Congress. The Muslims and Muslim League did not participate in Quit India Movement. However Quaid-e-Azam, in reply to "Quit India" slogans by the Congress, demanded "First divide and then Quit". Due to this the concept of the partition of India was cleared before the British Government.
- iii. In June 1945, Simla Conference was held, in which a proposal was made to select five Muslim representatives. The Congress insisted to nominate at least one representative from Muslim League but the Muslim instated to have an exclusive right to nominate Muslim member of the Viceroy's Council, because it was the only representative party of the Muslims. The conference broke out on this point.
- iv. In April 1946 at the occasion of Delhi Convention, Hussain Syed Suharvardi presented a Resolution in the presence of Quaid-e- Azam in which a demand was made for an independent state for the Muslims in North-Western and North-Eastern parts of the sub-continent.
- v. In the elections of 1946, Muslim League won all Muslim seats for the Central Assembly and these elections proved Muslim League as the first representative political party of the Muslims. Thus a demand for a separate state became the demand of the Muslims which gave them Pakistan on August 14, 1947. It is cleared after the consideration of above points that Muslim League made its struggle fast after the approval of Pakistan Resolution, therefore the demand for Pakistan started to become popular in the sub-continent although the congress was showing opposition to this demand it was the effort of the congress that the Muslims could not succeed in getting a separate state but the Muslim League won all the Muslim seats for central assembly. Hence it was proved that Muslim League is the only representative political party of the Muslims in the sub-continent. Quaid-e-Azam said in his speech on the occasion of Pakistan Resolution that the Muslims should think hundred times before making a decision but when a decision is made then all should become united on it. Thus the Muslims became united according to the statement of Quaid-e-Azam which gave them a progress in their struggle; hence they were able to get Pakistan.

Q20. Describe the aims and objectives of the struggle of Pakistan.

Introduction:

The creation of Pakistan on August 14 started from 1857, a glimpse into the history of the sub-continent seems necessary to understand the justification for the demand of Pakistan.

Advent of Muslims in the Continent:

The introduction of Islam and its propagation in south Asia started earnestly when Sindh was conquered by Mohammad Bin Qasim in 712 A.D. Many local people accepted Islam because they were impressed by the superior culture, good behaviour and general courtesy of the Muslims.

Advent of Europeans:

The British entry into the Indo-Pak sub-continent took place through East India Company founded in 1600 with the aim of trading benefits and gradually acquired political powers.

The War of Independence:

With the complete domination of the British both Hindus and Muslims realized that a third party had taken advantage of their conflicts. Adversity brought them together and this unity flared in the form of war of independence 1857. Their attempts were in vain and British conquered all states lying between Delhi and Bengal.

British Rule:

When British came in power, the Hindus being cunning extended their cooperation to the new rulers. The Muslims were oppressed by both British and the Hindus.

Struggle for Basic Human Rights:

The British government resulted in a system in which the Muslims were deprived even of their basic human rights.

Justification for Demand of Pakistan:

In spite of the 800 years rule of the Muslims over the sub-continent the Hindus did not accept Muslims as their rulers. They always tried to eradicate Muslims and their distinct identity. All these inhuman acts were resisted by the Muslims. The majority of the Hindu population not only believed in a strong caste system but also had a prejudice against the non-Hindu people. As a consequence if power was handed over to the Hindus the Muslims would not have obtained equal rights as citizens and would have been crushed or merged into the Hindu community.

Difference between the Two Nations:

The Muslims and the Hindus were two different nations, though they had lived together for many hundred years yet they could not evolve into one nation. The Muslims had their own culture, civilization, customs, philosophy of life and religion. The most distinctive feature of the Muslims was their faith in the Unicity of God, finality of the prophet hood on Hazrat Muhammad (P.B.U.H) teachings of Islam and equality of all men. It was obvious that under the Hindus rule the Muslims would have been condemned to perpetual social inequality.

Avowal by a Statement:

It was also avowed by a statement written by an eminent historian of India that, "The followers of Islam settled in large numbers but they did not merge themselves into the Hindu pattern so far the first time in Indian history two distinct but important communities and culture stood face to face and India was permanently divided into two powerful units."

(Glimpses of Bengal)

Protection of Separate Identity:

The Muslims believed strongly that they are distinct and separate people. They gradually realized the need of a separate homeland for themselves. As a separate nation they were entitled to self-rule in those areas where they were in majority to develop their Islamic values.

Conclusion:

This was the justification for the demand of Pakistan and hence Pakistan movement started.

Q21. Write a note on Cripps Mission.

In order to resolve the political deadlock of the sub-continent Sir Stafford Cripps was sent by the British Government to India. He came to discuss with the leaders of India, the future Indian constitution. During his stay Cripps met Maulana Azad, Jinnah, Gandhi and Nehru. After a week's discussion he announced his proposal on March 29, 1942.

Cripps Proposal:

i. Constituent Assembly:

A constituent Assembly consisting of elected representatives from the provinces and nominated representatives from the state shall be formed immediately after the war to frame a new constitution for India.

ii. Grounds for acceptance of constitution:

The constitution framed by the constituent assembly shall have to be accepted on the following grounds.

- a. Any province of British India not prepared to accept the new constitution would have the right to retain its present constitutional position.
- b. A fresh agreement would have to be concluded between the constituent assembly and British Government to settle the issues pertaining to the transfer of power.

iii. Dominion Status:

India would be given dominion status.

iv. Defence:

The government would retain the control of defence of India until the cessation of war.

v. Government of India act 1935:

The government of India act 1935 shall remain in force until the end of war.

vi. Viceroy's Executive Council:

The executive council Viceroy will consist of representatives of political parties where as the Commander In – Chief and finance Minister shall be a British National.

vii. Acceptation or Rejection:

The suggestions are to be accepted or rejected as a whole and there shall be no amendments. It would only be implemented when both Muslim League and Congress accept them unanimously.

This proposal was rejected both by Congress and Muslim League. The Congress characterized it as "a postdated cheque on a failing bank". While Mr. Jinnah said,

"If these were accepted Muslims would become a minority in their majority provinces as well."

The mission failed and the political situation of India worsened day by day.

Q22. Write a brief note on Quit India Movement.

The Quit India Movement (Bharat Chhodo) was a call for immediate independence of India from British rule by Mr. Gandhi on 14th July 1942, Indian national congress passed a resolution demanding complete independence from Britain. The draft proposed that if British did not accede to the demands a massive Civil Disobedience would be launched. This Movement was launched on August 8, 1942 at the Bombay session of Congress committee, with the famous call of "do or die" Indians were to wage one last struggle to achieve independence or die in that attempt. The quit India movement was followed by large scale violence for which the British Government held Mr. Gandhi responsible.

Quaid-e-Azam considered this movement as an anti – Muslim action. In reply to Quit India slogan by congress, Muslim League demanded "First divide, then quit."

The British responded to this by mass detention. A total of 90,000 arrests were made nationwide.

Q23. Write the details of Cabinet mission.

To end the deadlock between the two major parties Congress and Muslim League after the general elections 1945-46 the British Government sent a special mission of Cabinet Ministers to India.

Members:

- i. Lord Lawrence
- ii. Sir Cripps
- iii. A.V Alexandar

Purpose:

- i. Preparatory discussion with elected representatives to secure agreement as to the method of framing constitution.
- ii. Setting up a constitution body.
- iii. Setting of executive council.

Proposal:

The mission arrived on March 24, 1946 and after discussion with Muslim League and Congress, presented its proposal on May 16, 1946. The main points were.

i. Union of India:

There shall be a union of the sub – continent which shall be responsible for foreign affairs, defence and communication.

ii. Residuary Powers:

Except the above subjects all other affairs shall be the responsibility of provinces.

iii. Right to opt:

Provinces shall be authorized to form their own groups and each group shall frame constitution itself.

iv. Constitutional Terms:

Provinces shall be authorized to demand for changes in constitution with a majority decision after ten years.

v. Three – pronged federation:

South Asia was divided into three groups.

A = UP, Bihar, Orissa, CP, Bombay and Madras. B = Punjab, Sindh, NWFP. C = Bengal and Assam

vi. Interim Government:

There would also be an interim government having support of political parties.

The Muslim League accepted the plan on June 6, 1946 while congress accepted it on June 25, 1946.

Q24. Write a short note on Redcliff Awards.

Mr. Radcliff an ordinary lawyer was sent from England to India for the demarcation of the boundaries of Punjab and Bengal.

The viceroy and Mr. Radcliff connived with Congress and demarcated the boundaries according to their wishes. Radcliff included many Muslim majority areas in India and deprived Pakistan of the waters of Sutlej, Bias, and Ravi. Further he extended the frontiers of India upto Kashmir. Through Gurdaspur, India captured Kashmir and created a Kashmir issue which is still unsolved. The defected planning of Radcliff created many problems for Pakistan.

Descriptive Answers and Questions

Q1. Describe the events from 1940 – 1947.

Introduction:

The Hindus and Muslims were two different nations having different religious, faith and belief. The Muslims did not resemble with Hindus in any way. There were many clashes between the Hindus and Muslims. The Muslims wanted a separate homeland so that they can practice the laws of Islam.

Events From 1940-1947:

Pakistan Resolution (1940):

On 23rd March 1940, a resolution was passed by the chief Minister of Bengal, A.K Fazal Haq demanding the separation of Muslims majority regions into a single country. This resolution was named Lahore Resolution but it was renamed as Pakistan Resolution.

August Offer (1940):

On 8th August 1940, the Britishers presented an offer to the Hindus and the Muslims to participate in the viceroy's Executive Council Quaid-e-Azam said that the league had agreed with the offer but only "in principles" though the details were not satisfactory. Due to different reasons it was rejected by both the Hindus and the Muslims.

Cripps Mission (1942):

Sir Stafford Cripps in the form of one delegation member came to India in order to hold negotiations with the Muslim League and Congress. However, his mission failed.

Quit India Movement (1942):

On 8th August 1942, the Congress started the non-co-operation movement so that pressure may be executed on British Government in two ways that of world and that from India's internal movement. These Hindus thought that the British would leave, while Quaid-e-Azam demanded 'First divide then Quit'.

Raj Gopal Acharya's Formula (1944):

As a result of Quit India Movement, several Congress leaders were brought behind the bar. Raj Gopal Acharya presented his formula of holding negotiations between Congress and Muslim League. His formula failed.

Gandhi – Jinnah Talks (1944):

In September 1944, Gandhi paid a visit to Quaid-e-Azam at his residence to hold talks with him. He questioned the reason for petitioning. He (Jinnah) told Gandhi that the Hindus and Muslims belong to two separate religions. These talks proved to be fruitless.

Wave Plan (1945):

Lord Wevell, the viceroy of India at that time made a plan to solve the internal problems of India. He said that the only solution was the formation of viceroy's executive Council.

Simla Conference (1945):

21 Indian leaders went Simla to participate in the conference to reach an agreement between the Congress and Muslims. This plan also fails.

Elections (1945-1946):

After the world war, the government of Britain held election in the sub-continent Muslim League also participated in it and won 30 seats in the Central Assembly and 429 in the Provincial Assembly. This was a big victory for the Muslim League and they celebrated it on 11th Jan 1946.

Delhi Convention (1946):

On 10th April 1946, the Muslim League rated in account of their victory in elections on the fact that they had proved themselves the sole representative body of the Muslims. The ministries were formed but still there were clashes between Hindus and Muslims which led to the arrival of new viceroy to India, Lord Mountbatten.

3rd June Plan (1947):

Lord Mountbatten after negotiations with Hindus and Muslims came to the decision that Hindustan will be divided and given freedom. Punjab and Bengal will also be divided. The country formed will be free to appoint its Governor General. The Indian Act of 1935 will be implemented until the country forms its own law. Quaid-e-Azam forwarded it in the form of speech.

Cabinet Mission (1946):

Three ministers of British Government visited South Asia in order to reach on an agreement between Muslim League and Congress.

Interim Ministries (1946):

On 11th Sep 1946 Congress was allowed to form ministries on Hindu quota. The Muslims got angry with it and observed a black day. They rejected the Cabinet Mission. Therefore on the 12th October 1946, they were also allowed to form ministries. Hence, 11 ministries were formed.

Congress	: 06
Muslim League	: 05
Sikh	: 01
Parassee	: 01
Christian	: 01

Conclusion Establishment of Pakistan (1947):

After a lot of struggle and hard work, Pakistan came into existence on 14th August 1947. According to Islamic Calendar, it was Jummat-ul-Wida, 27th of Ramadan 1366 Hijri. Muslims succeeded in their fight against freedom. Thus Pakistan did not quiet rise to a nationality but all the Muslims of Sub-continent are one nation, this was the spirit that created Pakistan.

Q2. What were the initial difficulties faced by Pakistan after its creation?

Introduction:

Pakistan came into being on 14th August 1947 after a long and hard struggle of the Muslims. Being a newly born state Pakistan faced a lot of difficulties. Some of these are as follows:

Formation of Government:

(i) Lack of Experienced Personnel: The most important task was to establish administration for government but there was a great deficiency of able and experienced personnel's, so junior staff was occupying posts.

(ii) Official Accommodation:

There was no proper accommodation for administrative purposes. The central secretariat began to function in army barracks with no proper furniture or stationary. More over the official records required for administration were destroyed by Hindus.

(iii) Constitutional Problem:

After partition, government of India act 1935 was adopted with some amendments as constitution.

(iv) Choice of Capital:

To form a government and establish a secretariat the choice of capital was another problem. Therefore Karachi was chosen.

Division of Financial and Military Assets:

(i) Obsolete Machinery:

Pakistan needed military equipment for defence and other machinery for economic welfare. The army was justly divided but the military assets were divided most unjustly. All weapons were not transferred, only the Obsolete and out dated were given. Similarly, railway carriages were sent very late and only the broken ones were sent.

(ii) No Ordinance factories:

There was no ordinance factory in Pakistan while there were 16 in India.

(iii) Division in Money:

At the time of partition Pakistan was to receive 75 million out of which only 200 million were paid. Later because of Gandhi's strike 500 more were paid. 50 million have still not been paid.

Rehabilitation of Refugees:

(i) Communal Strife:

As a result of attacks by Hindus and Sikhs at the time of partition when Muslims reached Pakistan they had either been injured or had lost their families and money.

(ii) Refugee accommodation:

Just after a few weeks of creation more than a million Muslims had migrated to Pakistan. There was no place to accommodate number of growing refugees. Also there were no shops or schools or hospitals.

Canal Water Dispute:

Irrigation head works were in India. Due to the division of Punjab, the head works of various rivers went to India. Knowing that Pakistan is an agricultural country. India stopped the flow of water in canals on 1st April 1948. So in the beginning Pakistan had to pay a lot to buy water. Later in 1960, the matter resolved due to Indus Basin Treaty.

Language Problem:

The newly born state had a difficulty in choosing national language also. The western and eastern halves were not agreeing on one language.

Pakhtoon Problem:

The northern areas also created many problems for Pakistan. They believed themselves to be a separate nation. Therefore, they revolted against Pakistani government.

Death of Quaid-e-Azam:

Soon after independence Pakistan lost the dynamic leadership of Quaid – e – Azam on September 11, 1948.

Conclusion:

As a new state Pakistan had to face a lots of problems due to the diplomacy of Hindus and British.

Q3. Describe the services of Quaid – e – Azam in making Pakistan.

He received his early education at Karachi and left for England for higher studies where he did his law. He returned to India and started his practice in Bombay.

In Politics:

He entered the politics in 1906 and was elected a member of legislative council. On insistence of Maulana Muhammad Ali Johar he joined Muslim League in 1913 and retained his membership in congress too.

Ambassador:

He was an ambassador of Hindu Muslim unity and made sincere efforts in this regard. Lucknow pact 1916 is an example of his sincerity.

Elected President of Muslim League:

He joined Muslim League in 1913 and reestablished the party with great zeal and zest.

Nehru Report:

He rejected the Nehru report in 1928 as it was against the favour of Muslims.

Fourteen points:

He presented his fourteen points in reply of Nehru report in which he had demanded all the fundamental rights for Muslims.

Struggle against Slogan of One India:

Quaid – e – Azam was well aware of the Hindu nature so he rejected the slogan of One India and clearly said: "There are three power in India namely Muslims, Hindus and British".

Round Table Conference:

He represented Muslims of India in three round table conferences.

Day of Deliverance:

When the Congress ministers resigned Quaid-e-Azam declared to celebrate "Day of Deliverance" as mark of thanks and joy on 22nd December 1939.

Pakistan Resolution:

On 23rd March 1940 a resolution was passed under the presidentship of Quaid – e – Azam. It demanded a separate homeland for Muslims.

Rejection of Cripps Mission:

Quaid-e-Azam rejected the Cripps proposal in 1942 as it did not contain the Muslim demand.

After the creation of Pakistan Quaid – e – Azam strived hard for attainment of its stability.

Conclusion:

Without the Quaid's bold decisions and struggle the Muslims would not have been able to attain a separate homeland.

Q4. Write a note on Kashmir issue.

Pakistan had to face a sea of troubles and toils right after its birth. There was a long trial of trials; however the most important of these was the dispute of Jammu and Kashmir.

Location of the State of Jammu and Kashmir:

The state of Jammu and Kashmir is situated in the North of Pakistan. It was the largest princely state in the sub-continent. This state is contours to Pakistan, China, Tibet and Afghanistan.

Population of the State:

The total population of the State Jammu and Kashmir was 4 million according the census of 1941.

Area of the State:

The area of the state was 84471 sq. km.

A Muslim State:

The state of Jammu and Kashmir is predominantly a Muslim state with Muslims being majority in the area.

Kashmir and Dogra Rajas:

The British Government sold the whole area of the state to the Dogra Raja, Gulab Singh for Rs. 75 lac only in the year 1846. The Raja and his successors played havoc with the Muslims of the state. The Muslims were crushed socially, economically and culturally.

Freedom Movement in Jammu Kashmir:

The struggle for independence from the Dogra atrocities started much before the Pakistan movement. The Raja restarted the freedom fighters with an iron hand but spirit for freedom can never be crushed through atrocity. The Kashmiri's even today are struggling to win the destination of freedom. They aspire for annexation with Pakistan "Kashmir banay ga Pakistan" is the main slogan of Kashmiri people.

Kashmiri ties with Pakistan:

The state of Jammu and Kashmir is very close to Pakistan both on religious as well as geographical grounds. Most of the rivers that irrigate the soil of Pakistan flow from Kashmir. The Kashmir is emotionally attached with Pakistan. Therefore they passed the Raja to join Pakistan.

Fake Annexation of Kashmir with India:

Raja did everything to crush the freedom movement of the Kashmiri people. He forced to slaughter 2 lac Kashmiris but the movement got momentum with the passage of time. Being unable to handle the situation in Kashmir, the Raja requested India to come to his rescue. Indian government offered help on the condition to get Raja's signature on the document of annexation. Raja utterly refused and the Indian government prepared a fake document of annexation which the state of Jammu and Kashmir had annexed with India.

Azad Kashmir:

The Kashmir people did not lose heart even in such a grim situation. They kept on fighting with the Indian army for their cause until they got liberated a large area of Kashmir. This area is under the control of Pakistan and is called Azad Jammu Kashmir.

The Interference of the Security Council:

Soon India got frightened of the Kashmiri freedom frenzy. When the situation became tense on the line of control, the Indian government sought help of the Security Council of the United Nations. The Security Council intervened and passed two resolutions.

Two Resolutions of the Security Council:

The Security Council passed the following resolutions:

- Both the parties (Pakistan and India) were advised to accept cease-fire.
- The dispute of Kashmir must be resolved according to the aspirations of the people. For this purpose plebiscite was to be held.

The Kashmiri freedom fighters co-operated with the Security Council to bring about peace.

Two wars between Pakistan and India over the Kashmir issue.

The armed struggle stopped in Kashmir on Security Council's promise of holding a plebiscite. But unfortunately Security Council could do nothing in face of the interests of the major powers. The plebiscite could not be held and the Kashmiris were deprived of their basic rights. Pakistan was denied justice. This tyranny led to two wars between India and Pakistan. The wars resulted in nothing but blind bloodshed. Security Council passed more resolutions but nothing was done practically.

Conclusion:

The dispute of Jammu and Kashmir has not been resolved since many decades. India has sent large number of army personnel in the valley of Kashmir who are writing chapters of tyranny on the annals of the history. The problem of Kashmir is still pending on the agenda of the United Nations. Every now and then, many resolutions are passed but these resolutions prove nothing but lip service.

solve the problems of this newly born state. The role of Quaid-e-Azam as Governor General was as follows:

- | | | |
|---|----------------------------|------------------------------------|
| i. National Integrity | ii. Settlement of Refugees | iii. Advice to Government Officers |
| iv. Foreign Policy | v. Advise to the Students | vi. Dedication |
| vii. Guiding Principles of Pakistan Economy | | |
| Negation to Provincial and Rural Discrimination | | |

(i) National Integrity:

The initial problems of Pakistan required national integrity and close cooperation among the people of the new country. India had not accepted the existence of Pakistan from inner heart, and it was the considered opinion of Hindu leaders that Pakistan would soon collapse and the sub-continent will again be united. But it was the wisdom of Quaid-e-Azam who created national spirit and sense of patriotism among the people through his dedication, hard work and love for Pakistan. National unity was developed and Pakistan became a reality.

(ii) Settlement of Refugees:

About 6.5 million Muslims were rendered homeless in India and compelled to migrate to Pakistan to find refuge. Their settlement was a gigantic task.

Quaid-e-Azam paid immediate attention to the settlement of those refugees. Quaid-e-Azam relief fund was setup. He appealed to people to contribute funds, Quaid-e-Azam personally visited Lahore in October 1947 to look into the problems of refugees who had migrated from East Punjab and made arrangements for their residence and food. He addressed big gathering in Lahore on October 30, 1947 and said that it was the responsibility of Pakistani's to provide all possible help to the refugees who had left their homes for the sake of Pakistan and that they had suffered a lot at the hands of Hindus and Sikhs.

(iii) Change in the Attitude of Government Officers:

Quaid-e-Azam said that the government officers should prove themselves as true public servants. On March 25, 1948 Quaid-e-Azam addressed the government servants and advised them to perform their duties like public servants with honesty and above any affiliation to any political party or group. This will raise their status in the eyes of the public. The advice of Quaid-e-Azam infused a national spirit.

(iv) Negation to Provincial and Racial Discrimination:

Quaid-e-Azam advised the people to feel proud in calling themselves as Pakistan's and refrain from any kind of racial discrimination and regional prejudice. He toured all the provinces and tried to solve their problems. The armed forces from Waziristan agency were withdrawn giving a message to the people of the area that they were also an integral part of Pakistan. Different independent states formed an inseparable part of Pakistan. Karachi was declared the capital of Pakistan.

(v) Foreign Policy:

After the independence Quaid-e-Azam concentrated his efforts to make Pakistan a member of United Nations. Under his guidance diplomatic relations were established with a number of countries in a very short time. The focal point of Pakistan's foreign policy was to maintain friendly relations with all countries, especially with the close neighbours and Muslim countries. Quaid's role in this regard was the role of a patriotic and sincere person.

(vi) Guiding Principles of Pakistan Economy:

While inaugurating the State Bank of Pakistan on 1st July 1948. Quaid-e-Azam said that the western economic system was not suitable for Pakistan and will not bring prosperity to the people of this country. We have to evolve a system based on the Islamic equality and social justice. By doing this we might introduce a new social order in the world.

(vii) Advise to the Students:

Quaid-e-Azam held the view that the youth of Pakistan are its future asset. He advised the students to pay due attention to their education. He appreciated the role played by the students in the establishment of Pakistan and said that it is the time for them to refrain from politics until they complete their education.

(viii) Dedication: At the time of emergence of Pakistan in 1947, Quaid-e-Azam was sick and had become quite exhausted but he continued working day and night although he became over seventy. He tried to solve the problems of the people of newly born country. All his efforts were concentrated on the stability of Pakistan till his last breath. That is why he is called "The Father of Nation".

Descriptive Answers and Questions

Q1. Write a comprehensive note on the important and fundamental points of objectives resolution.

Objective Resolution:

Objective Resolution is the first and foremost document in the constitutional history of Pakistan. It provided a firm base to the constitution makers for the future constitution of Pakistan. Pakistan came into being on the basis of Islamic Ideology. So the future constitution was to be framed in accordance with the guideline of the Holy Quran and Sunnah. It must reflect the aims and aspirations of the Muslims of Pakistan. So drafting a constitution for Pakistan in the light of these points was really demanding.

In fact constitution is a frame of fundamental principles which governs the affairs of the state. Executive, Legislature and Judiciary are three fundamental organs of the state which run its system.

Constitution determines the powers and relationship of these three state organs. It also explains the rights and obligations of a citizen. Islamic constitution is unique in the nature. It represents the Islamic views, beliefs, traditions, deeds and values.

So the constitution making for Pakistan required careful measures. After independence, following measures were taken to deal with the situation.

Silent Features of the Objective Resolution:

According to the amended constitution, the objective resolution has been made the substantive part of the constitution. Following principles can be deduced from the objective resolution:

(i) Sovereignty to Allah:

According to the resolution it had been determined that Allah would be the real sovereign of the state of Pakistan. So the legislation will be practiced within the limits enunciated by the Quran and Sunnah.

(ii) Democratic State:

It was determined that Pakistan would follow the principles of democracy in his polity and elected representatives of the state would run its system.

(iii) Federation:

It was clearly declared in the Resolution that the federal system of state would be practiced. All the provinces would enjoy their powers within the constitutional limits and centre would not interfere in their entrusted powers.

(iv) Islamic Principles of Freedom, Equality and Social Justice:

It was declared in the resolution that while practicing democracy Islamic principles of freedom, equality and tolerance and social justice would be promoted properly and perfectly and Islamic values would be revived in the society.

(v) Islamic Way of Life:

It was recognized in the Resolution that the affairs of the state would be organized in such a way that people of Pakistan would be able to exercise the Islamic rules in their individual and social life.

(vi) Right Of Minorities:

Political, social and religious rights of the minorities were provided proper safeguard. Their cultural rights were also provided complete protection.

(vii) Fundamental Human Rights:

The objectives resolution pronounced that the protective measures would be taken towards human fundamental right while framing the constitution of the state.

(viii) Independence of Judicature:

Lastly, the resolution pronounced that the independence of the judiciary would be ensured because without it democratic values could not prosper.

Q2. Describe the details of Islamic section of 1973 constitution?

In the present constitution Islamic values and ideology have been provided complete protection. Special sections have been included to publicize and implement the Islamic ideology and the culture arises from it. Following details of the constitution show that adequate measures have been taken to make it an Islamic constitution.

(i) Objectives Resolution Permanent Part of Constitution:

In the former constitution the objectives resolution had been taken as preamble but in the present constitution objective resolution has been included as its permanent part. This is notable that above mentioned Resolution describes the basis of Muslim ideology. According to this Resolution sovereignty of Allah has been declared as a basis of that political process which has been implemented in Pakistan. It is built on legislatures of Pakistan to practice the legislation within the limits prescribed by the Holy Qur'an and Sunnah. Intension has been described in the resolution that the people of Pakistan shall be enabled to order their lives in the individual and collective spheres in accordance with the teachings and requirements of Islam. But this is notable that the objective resolution was declared as the permanent part of present constitution during the reign of general Muhammad Zia-ul-Haq.

(ii) The Islamic Republic Of Pakistan:

Like the former constitutions present constitution also declares Pakistan as an Islamic Republic.

(iii) Islam To Be State Religion:

In the Article No.2, the constitution describes Islam as state religion of Pakistan.

(iv) Definition Of Muslim:

Present constitution has defined the Muslim and described the minimum limits which the religion requires one who believes in the finality of Hazrat Muhammad's prophet hood. According to this who believes in the false prophecy of any person who claims to be a prophet after the advent of Hazrat Muhammad (peace be upon him) is not a Muslim.

(v) The President and The Prime Minister Should Be Muslim:

The offices of president ship and Prime Ministership were restricted to the Muslims only.

(vi) Islamic Beliefs and Oath Of Different Office Bearers:

The offices of president ship and Prime Minister to declare their beliefs in Allah, apostles, Angels, Divine Books, Day of Judgment and finality of Hazrat Muhammad prophet hood while taking an oath. Besides federal Ministers, speaker of the National Assembly, chairman and vice chairman of senate provincial Governors and Provincial Ministers are bound to declare solemnly to be faithful and guardian of Islamic ideology while taking oath for their offices.

(vii) Legislation With in Islamic Teachings:

It has determined in the constitution that the legislation will be done within the limits prescribed by the Quran and Sunnah. Government is bound to provide opportunities to the people of Pakistan to order their lives in accordance with the teachings of Islam.

(viii) Establishment Of Islamic Ideology Council:

According to the directions of present constitution an Islamic Ideology Council has been set to guide the Government in enforcing Islamic laws and teachings. It's Chairman and members are appointed by the president. This council guides the Federal and Provincial Governments to practice legislation within the limits of Islamic teachings. It makes the recommendation to Federal and Provincial Governments to take such measures as enables the Muslims of Pakistan to order their lives according to the Islamic teachings. Islamic council also declares its verdict about suggested laws as to whether they are within limits of the Quran and Sunnah or not.

(ix) Islamic Qualification Of The Members of Majlis-i- Shoora:

Present constitution restricts the members of majlis-i-shoora to bear the quality described of true believers. He should be the possessor of such qualities which have been described as moral standard for true believers in the Quran and Sunnah. The constitution describes the following merits for the members of Majlis-i-shoora.

- a) He is of good character and is not commonly known as one who violates Islamic injunction.
- b) He should have adequate knowledge of Islamic teachings and practices the obligatory duties prescribed by Islam. He should abstain from major sins.
- c) He must be sagacious, righteous and non-profligate. He should be honest and Ameen as well.

(x) Islamic Teachings and Governments Obligations:

Spreading and propagating of Islamic teachings will be the basic responsibilities of the Government according to the present constitution Government should arrange the publication of the Holy Quran free from errors. It should provide safeguard to the rights of minorities. It is determined that Pakistani Government should try its best to improve friendly relations with the Muslim countries.

(xi) Islamaization During The Reign Of General Zia-ul- Haq

General Muhammad Zia-ul-Haq became the ruler of the country as a result of Tehreek-i-Nizami Mustafa. So he took the following measures to fulfill the requirements of Islamic provisions of the present constitution.

Q3. Describe the details of constitutional history of Pakistan from 1949-1973?

Constitution:

A constitution is the system of laws and principles according which a country is governed.

The constitution is an important and sacred document and without it we cannot think of running a government. It is a tragedy that we could not adhere to any of the constitution made from time to time.

In Pakistan, the constitution making process underwent the following phases.

(i) Government of India Act, 1935:

At the time of independence it was not possible to frame the constitution of the new born state immediately. The Government India Act, 1935, with certain amendments was, therefore enforced to run the affairs of the state on adhoc basis. The act was made by the British and therefore could not fulfill our national needs.

(ii) The Objective Resolution:

The first step towards the making of constitution was taken in March 1949, when the first Constituent Assembly of Pakistan passed the objective resolution. At that time Khan Liaquat Ali Khan was the Prime Minister of Pakistan. The Objectives Resolution held that the sovereignty belongs to Almighty Allah, and the people of Pakistan would exercise the authority and rights within the limits prescribed for the Holy Quran and Sunnah. The resolution also said that no law repugnant to Islam would be enforced in Pakistan.

(iii) Efforts For A New Constitution:

After the acceptance of objective resolution the Legislative Assembly appointed a 24 members Committee to determine the fundamental rules and regulations of the constitution. The committees report was published. This report was adversely criticized and opposed especially in East Pakistan Liaquat Ali Khan was martyred in October 1951.

After Liaquat Ali Khan, no government was successful in making the constitution till 1956.

(iv) The Constitution of 1956:

In June 1955, the elections of the new Central Legislative Assembly were held. In August 1955 Chaudhry Muhammad Ali took over as the Prime Minister of Pakistan. In October 1955, the four provinces of West Pakistan were merged into one province, called one unit. In January 1956, the draft bill of the new constitution was presented before the Constituent Assembly and was passed on 26th February 1956. It was introduced on 23rd March 1956, and remained enforced until October 7, 1958.

(v) The Constitution of 1962:

There was a rebellion against the government towards the end of 1958 which was crushed.

Under those circumstances the President, Major General Sikandar Mirza annulled the constitution, the ministries and appointed General Muhammad Ayub Khan as Chief Martial Law Administrator. On 27th October, 1958, Major General Sikandar Mirza resigned and General, Muhammad Ayub Khan took over as the President of the state.

General Ayub formed a constitution commission which submitted its recommendations in 1961. It was on the basis of these recommendation that a new Constitution was formed. On 8th June 1962, the Martial Law was lifted and the new constitution was enforced. This constitution is known as constitution of 1962.

(vi) Second Martial Law:

Towards the end of 1968, the people of Pakistan made vast demonstrations, protests and strikes throughout the country against the constitution and the dictating attitude of President Ayub Khan. These riots were so severe that the President had to resign from his office. On 25th March 1962, he handed over the authority to the chief of Army Staff General Muhammad Yahya Khan who annulled the constitution of 1962, and enforced second Martial Law in the country Yahya Khan first became the Chief Martial Law Administrator and after three months he took over the charge as President of Pakistan.

(vii) Elections of 1970 and Political Office:

In December 1970, Yahya Khan conducted General Elections in December 1970, so that the elected representative could prepare a new constitution. The elections were followed by severe political crises in the country. India took advantage of this situation and attacked Pakistan in November 1971. The war resulted in separation of East Pakistan. After cease-fire General Yahya Khan transferred power to Mr. Zulfikar Ali Bhutto the Chairman of Peoples party which appeared as a majority party in West Pakistan in the general election 1970. In 1972, the elected representatives adopted an interim Constitution in order to lift the Martial Law enforced by General Yahya Khan and to start a new constitutional period.

The National Assembly formed a 25 members committee who was entrusted with the task of preparing the draft bill of the new constitution for the country. This committee held representation of the main political parties having seats in the National Assembly. The committee prepared the draft bill of the constitution and submitted it to the National Assembly on 31st December 1972. The National Assembly studied the draft carefully, proposed certain amendments and confirmed the draft of the constitution on 21st April 1973, and it was promulgated on the 14th August, 1973. This constitution is known as the constitution of 1973.

Physical Features of Pakistan:

The land surface of Pakistan can be divided into the following physical features.

- (i) Mountains (ii) Plateaus (iii) Plains (iv) Deserts including coastal areas.

Mountains:

Physically the mountains of Pakistan are divided into two parts:

- a) Northern and North – Eastern Mountains
- b) North Western and Western Mountains

Northern and North Eastern Mountains:

These include the Himalayas and the Karakoram.

The Himalayas:

The Himalayas are spread like an arch in the North of South Asian continent. The Western parts of these mountains ranges pass through Jammu and Kashmir. These ranges are divided into the following four parts.

a. The Sub – Himalayas or Siwalik Hills:

These hills are spread in South of Himalayas from Sialkot district to Northern part of Rawalpindi district. Their average height is 300 to 1000 meters.

b. The lesser Himalayas or Pir Panjal Mountain Range:

These are located near the border ranges of Karakoram and Siwalik. They raise upto height of 1800m to 4600m. Hill resorts like Muree, Ayubia, and Kaghan are located here.

c. Great Himalayan Mountain Range:

The biggest Himalayan range is situated between Pir Panjal and Karakoram. The highest of the mountain is 6500m. The highest peak of this range is Nanga Parbat which is 8126m. Indus River originates from here. Kashmir valley also lies in this range.

d. The Laddakh Mountain range or Interior Himalayan:

The Great Himalayas begin to climb down further North. These low mountains are called Laddakh or interior Himalayas.

The Karakoram:

The Mountains of Karakoram are located in the North West Himalaya. Northern Gilgit and Kashmir are situated here. Its average height is 1000m. Its highest peak is Godwin Austin (K - 2) which is 8011m.

Q4. Describe the role of national language in creating national integrity and solidarity.

Beginning and Inclination:

Urdu is developed language and it is representative of our history and culture. This is the only language, which is spoken far and wide in the sub-continent with little changes. It has absorbed the words of Arabic, Persian, Turkish, and other local languages of South Asia. Many words of languages of Europe (English) have been part of it, like Bangla, Bus, school, college, hospital, operation, laboratory, test, station, radio, TV etc. Urdu has flourished a lot in Pakistan. Writers and poets have contributed a lot to spread it. Its main quality is that it has absorbed the words of other languages in it in such a way that they have become its components.

Prakrat:

In olden days Arians came from Middle East and they began to live in the northern parts of Sub-continent. Their language was Sanskrit. But due to local influences changes came in this language and deformed form of Sanskrit language was named Prakrat. This language was spoken till one and a half thousand years ago.

Hindi or Birg Bhasha:

Slowly changes came in Prakrat language and it changed form was called Birg Bhasha. When Muslims came in the sub-continent, this language was spoken throughout the country.

The Birth of Urdu:

Various Muslim emperors ruled the sub-continent. Their language was Persian in which there were mixed Arabic and Turkish words. At the arrival of European nations, some French and Portugali words were also included in this language. During the regime of Shah Jehan, Birg Bhasha so changed tht it seemed to be a new language and formed a Lushkari language. Lushkar is called Urdu in Turkish language. In this way Urdu language came into being.

National Language:

Urdu is our national language. It is the symbol of unity and brotherhood. This is spoken and understood in all the four provinces with little changes of pronunciation. Urdu has been declared the national language in the 1973 constitution of Pakistan. This language is the main source of link between the four provinces. Urdu is full of precious wealth of religion, culture and literature. Mir, Ghalib, Hali, Akbar Allahabad and Zafar Ali Khan were the great poets and writers of this language. Their personalities influenced the people of the sub-continent very much. In this way Urdu plays a central role in developing our cultural heritage.

Urdu with Its Parents:

Late Maulana Salah-ud-Din describes Urdu languages in these words. "Urdu was born in Punjab, grew up in Delhi and she was married in Lucknow. Now it has become a widow and migrated to its parents, Pakistan. It is to see how it is treated by her parents.

National Language, A Source Of Unity And Uniformity:

Although Urdu is our national language and means of our education but at the time different regional languages have much importance and they are helpful in the progress of Urdu. There are several things common in most of our regional languages. Punjabi, Sindhi, Pushto, and Balochi have influenced Urdu very much. Great Sufi poets Bulley Shah, Shah Abdul Lateef Bhitai and Rehman Baba expressed similar facts and values of life, like hard works, truth, patriotism, bravery, piety and respect are the moral lessons, felt deeply by every Pakistani. Their importance is same for all the Muslims. In this way our national personality rises. Different regional languages are absorbed in the deep sea of Urdu. For national uplift, the progress of Urdu language is necessary. It is important to bring the people of different regions close to each other and to produce in them the emotions of love and brotherhood. It is required to write stories, songs, essays and history of all the regions of Pakistan in Urdu to satisfy all types of people.

Descriptive Answers and Questions

Q1. Give a brief account of planning of Economics in Pakistan.

Economic Planning:

The better use of national resources for the development of national economy and public welfare is called economic planning.

Importance of Economic Planning:

- | | |
|--|----------------------------------|
| (i) Increase of per-capita income | (ii) Increase of National Income |
| (iii) Creations of job opportunities | (iv) Economic self sufficiency |
| (v) Balance of payments | (vi) Industrial development |
| (vii) Development of Under Developed Areas | (viii) Employment of manpower |
| (ix) Stability of prices | (x) Control of population. |
| (xi) Control over economic Crisis. | |

Economic Planning in Pakistan:

Economic planning in Pakistan can be studied under the following headings.

- | | |
|---------------------------------|--|
| (i) Industry oriented planning | (ii) Agriculture centered planning. |
| (iii) Policy of Nationalization | (iv) Denationalization or Fiscal policy. |

Industry oriented planning:

During 1950 – 60, industrial development was at the top priority of our economic planning.

Agricultures oriented planning:

During 1960 – 70, agriculture sector was given due importance the salient features of this kind of planning are:

- Foreign monetary supports were considered essential for economic development.
- As a result of this policy, private growth rate increased.
- Gap between the rich and the poor was further livened.
- Balance of payments were disturbed due to the increased imports and lower exports level.
- Disparity between eastern and western zones of Pakistan was clear.

policy of nationalization:

- During 1970 – 80, 32 big industrial units were nationalized.
- This attitude of nationalization alarmed the investors and the investment came to a standstill.
- Production derailed
- The laborers took to protest.
- Dependence on foreign aid.

Denationalization or Fiscal policy:

- During the last years of 1980 the denationalization policy started.
- New incentive were provided to private investors.
- The new fiscal policy aimed at enhancing dependence on internal savings instead of foreign aid.
- Social sciences were expanded.
- HRD (Human Resource Development) was made the guiding principle for economic planning.

Q2. Give the background of Industrial development in Pakistan and signify the importance of industries in the development of Pakistan.

Background:

Pakistan started with an extremely weak industrial base after independence. The British had concentrated their entire industrial establishment in a few big cities like Calcutta, Bombay and Madras. Under partition, major industries established in India were, textile, jute, sugar, steel, iron, cement, paper and glass.

At the time of partition, there were 921, big industrial units in India, out of these only 34 came to the share of Pakistan (less than four percent of the total), and this was unfair because 20 % of the total Indian population lived in Pakistan. Employment capacity of the industries which came to the share of Pakistan was even poorer. Indian industrial units had a total capacity of employing 11, 37,150 persons daily, Pakistan's 34 units had a capacity of employing only 26,400 persons daily i.e. only 2.32% of the total.

Importance of Industry in National Development:

Pakistan is basically an agrarian economy and in order to make rapid economic progress we need to develop our agriculture on priority basis, but this does not mean that industrial development is less important. We should pay due attention to the progress of industry for reasons given below:

- Modern agriculture cannot be carried out without the help of mechanical equipment. Modernization of agriculture demands, abundant supply of agricultural instruments, pesticides, insecticides and fertilizers, which obviously need strong industrial support.
- In order to earn more foreign exchange, it is necessary that our agricultural produce is not exported raw but in processed form. Processing requires an agro-based industrial set up.
- Pakistan has to import large quantities of raw and processed goods in order to meet the demands of her ever expanding population as well as for keeping a balance between exports and imports, for this we should try to manufacture consumer's goods within our country and establish factories for this purpose.
- By expanding our industrial base we can provide employment for maximum number of our people, this will alleviate poverty problem and help us in improving our people's quality life.

Q3. Describe the mineral resources of Pakistan.

Minerals Resources or Minerals:

The natural wealth and deposits which are buried under the earth in form of different elements and compounds are called as Minerals Resources or Minerals. These mineral resources provide great help in the industrial development of a country.

Minerals Resources of Pakistan:

Almighty Allah has given lots of mineral wealth to Pakistan. These minerals resources are playing a vital role in the rapid economic and industrial progress of Pakistan. There are approximately 47 important minerals of Pakistan which are found at different places but they are not taken as much valuable ability. The minerals which have economic forces are nearly 27. Following are the important mineral resources of Pakistan.

Mineral Oil:

Mineral oil is an important wealth of the modern age. It is a source of generating energy. Mineral oil is found in raw condition which is refined in the oil refineries to get petrol and other by products like kerosene oil, diesel, plastic, candle, lubricating oil and baseline. Pakistan produces about 15% oil of the total requirements of the country. The remaining 85% requirements are met from the import of oil from other countries. The oil resources of Pakistan are located in Potowar, Khor, Dhullian, Kot Mayyab, Sarang in Attock district, Balkasar in Chakwal district, Joyamir in district Jehlum, Dhodak in Dera Ghazi Khan. In Sindh oil has been discovered at Badin, Hyderabad, Sanghar and Dadu districts. Oil and Gas Development Corporation (OGDC) is responsible for exploration of oil in the country.

Natural Gas:

The natural gas has great status among the energy resources specially in Pakistan. Where other energy resources are short, the importance of natural gas is more. Natural gas is required for running industry and is used as fuel, for vehicles and household purposes. Its use has become common because it is cheaper than the petrol. About 35% of the country needs are met out of natural gas. Pakistan has vast reserves of gas. Natural gas was first discovered at a place called Sui near Dera Bugti in Balochistan in 1952. Afterwards, this gas was discovered at thirteen different places in the lower Indus Valley and Potowar. The most important places for gas reserves are Sui, Uch, and Zin in Balochistan. Khairpur, Mazrani, Seri, Hundi, Kand Kot in Sindh and Dhodhak, Pir Koh, Dhullian and Mayyal in Punjab. Natural gas has been brought to different big cities through pipe lines. The gas is used in cement fertilizer and general industries. It is also used for producing thermal electricity.

Coal:

Coal is an important source of energy. Coal is used as a fundamental raw material in iron and steel industry. Pakistan has no production of coal. Low standard coal is produced in Pakistan. Pakistan produces about 11% at Makkarwal and Pith. The coal mines of Makkarwal in Mianwali district are the biggest coal mines in the country. In Balochistan, coal has been discovered at Sharag, Khost, Harnai, Sar, Degari, Shirin and Mach. Coal mines in Sindh are the Jhimpir in Thatta and Larkana in Jamshoro district. Coal has also been discovered in Tharparkar district in Sindh in a vast quantity.

Iron Ore:

The average annual production of iron ore in Pakistan is approximately four thousand tons which is far less than the requirements of the country. Iron ore is used for making iron, steel, machines and tools of different kind. The largest deposits of iron ore have been discovered in the Kala Bagh area. Other deposits are found in Langrial, 32 kilometers south of Abbotabad in Hazara district and Chitral. In Balochistan iron ore is found at Khuzdar, Chilghazi and Muslim Bagh. The iron found in Pakistan is not of good quality and it meets only 16% of the total requirement of the country. Pakistan Steel Mills is using imported iron ore.

Chromites:

Chromite is an important color metal used for making steel, aero planes, dyes and photography items. Pakistan has the larger reserves of chromites in the world. Most of which is exported to earn foreign exchange. Its deposits are found in Muslim Bagh, Chaghaj, Kharan in Balochistan. In N. W. F. P and FATA, the deposits of chromite are found in Malakand, Mohamnd Agency and North Waziristan.

Copper:

Copper is an important industrial metal. It is used in making electrical goods and electrical wires. The deposits of copper have been found in Chaghaj district of Balochistan at Saindak and Amuri. An estimate of these reserves deposits is 412 million ton in which some quantity of silver and gold are present. But the work is in progress on these deposits.

Gypsum:

Gypsum is an important and precious mineral found in Pakistan. It is used in the production of cement, chemical fertilizers, plaster of paris and bleaching powder. The total reserves of Gypsum found in Pakistan are estimated 350 million tons. The gypsum is obtained from the districts of Jehlum, Mianwali, Dera Ghazi Khan in Punjab. In N.W.F.P. at Kohat, In Sindh at Rohri and in Balochistan gypsum is found at Sibi and Loralai.

Salt:

Pakistan has the largest reserves of mineral salt in the world. The biggest salt range is located in the South of Potowar plateau. This salt is of fine quality. The biggest salt mine is in Khewra in Jehlum district of Punjab. Salt is also obtained from Warchha in Khushab district, Kala Bagh in Mianwali district and Bahadur Khel in Karak district. In the Mauripur area near Karachi and the Makran coast. Salt is obtained from sea water. Salt is used in cooking, it is also used in the manufacture of washing soda and hydrochloric acid.

Lime Stone:

Lime Stone is mostly used for making cement. When it is burnt, lime is obtained which is used for white washing the houses. It is also used in glass, soap, paper and dye industries. Vast lime deposits are found in Dandot in Jehlum district, Zindapir at Dera Ghazi Khan, Mughal Kot and Ganjo Takkar near Hyderabad, Manghopir, Kot Diji and Ranipur in Sindh.

Marble Stone:

Marble Stone is mostly used for the decoration and elegance of the buildings and houses. Marble stone of different kinds and of different colours is found in abundance in Pakistan. It is found in the districts of Chaghai, Mardan, Swat and Khyber Agency.

The Marble stone of Pakistan is considered to be of the best quantity in the world due to its softness, beauty and colour. Black and white marble is found in the Kala Chitta Hills in Attock district.

Q4. Write a note on Main industries of Pakistan?Main industries of Pakistan:

The details of industries established and product in Pakistan is given as under:

Chemical Fertilizer Industry:

Traditional fertilizers cannot be relied for the faster agricultural development so the chemical fertilizers become a must for agricultural sector. The chemical fertilizers factories are working at Multan, Maripur, Mathelo, Faisalabad, Mirpur, Dawood Khel and Dharki.

Woollen Textile Industry:

Woolen textile mills are producing at Bannu, Swat, Lawrancepure, D. I. Khan, Peshawar, Quaidabad and Hunza.

Sugar Industry:

Sugarcane is grown the large scale in Pakistan and so about 60 sugar mills are at the various places in the country.

Cotton Textile Industry:

Pakistan, with reference to the cotton textiles, is renowned as Manchester of Asia. Cotton textiles are in dominating position amongst the exportables. Cotton textile mills are working at Faisalabad, Multan and Karachi.

Oil Refineries:

Oil refineries are working at Karachi, Rawalpindi and Muzaffargarh and Kot Addu.

Cement Industry:

Pakistan produces cement on the large scale and after satisfying the local needs, it is exported also. Cement plants are working at Karachi, Dawood Khel, Hyderabad, Rohri, Hazara, Dandot and Jehlum.

Paper and Board Industry:

Although Pakistan makes paper and paper board but production is less than the requirement therefore, paper and board are imported every year on the large scale. Paper and board mills are at Nawshera, Lahore, Charsadda, Shekhupura, Gujranwala etc.

Iron and Steel Industry:

Although the factories have been established to process iron ore in Balochistan but the biggest steel Mills is in Karachi named as Pakistan Steel.

Leather and Leather Goods Industry:

Pakistan, being agricultural country, is self sufficient in leather and leather goods production and has been producing shoes, hand bags, suitcases and leather garments on the large scale. Leather and leather goods factories are working at Harrappa, Karachi, Kasur, Lahore and Hyderabad.

Ship Building Industry:

One ship building factory is working at Karachi which also provides repairing services.

Machine and Tools Industry:

Heavy Mechanical Complex was established at Taxila with the financial and technological collaboration of China which is producing big plants and parts. Similarly, Machine and Tool Factory is also working at Karachi. Railway bogies are being produced at Islamabad.

Rubber and Cigarette Making Industry:

Rubber goods like tires of motor vehicles and cycles, shoes, tubes and other items are produced at Sialkot, Karachi and Lahore. Apart from it, 30 cigarette making factories are also there in Pakistan.

Electronic Goods Industry:

Electronics goods industry has developed rapidly in Pakistan. Many factories are engaged in producing electric wires, television sets, radio sets, air conditioners etc. Gujrat and Gujranwala are the centers of this industry.

In addition to these industries, other industries are also working in pharmaceuticals, cycles etc.

Q5. Signify the importance of agriculture in our national economy.

Significance of Agriculture in Pakistan's economy:

Pakistan is basically an agrarian economy. Following factors signify the importance of agriculture in our economic structure.

- Thirty two percent of GNP comes from agriculture sector.
- We full fill our seventy to eighty percent of foreign exchange requirements from the income generated from agriculture sector.
- Thirty nine percent of our total population is employed as labor force in the agriculture sector.
- Seventy nine percent of our total population depends upon agriculture indirectly.
- In spite of our enormous dependence on agriculture sector or level of our agriculture produce is extremely low, i.e. we produce only 20 mounds of wheat per acre as compared to 50 mounds per acre in the United States and only 11 mounds of rice per acre as compared to 50 mounds in Italy.
- About 30 percent of the population depends on agriculture is semi-employed.
- Seventy two percent of our total population lives in rural areas is widespread.
- Due to immense poverty, level of illiteracy in the rural areas is almost double of the urban areas.

Poverty and Agriculture Sector:

Despite recent good macroeconomic performance, Pakistan continues to have high levels of poverty. Poverty estimates of 2000-2001, indicate that around one third of the population lives at or below the poverty line, with poverty being concentrated in rural areas. Available international literature indicates a strong and clear cut relationship between agricultural growth and poverty reduction. The agricultural sector is a major determine of the overall economic growth and wellbeing in Pakistan, contributing 23 percent of total GDP; employing 42% of the total employed labor forces; and accounting nearly 9 percent of the country's export earnings. Thus, high agricultural growth is essential for significant poverty reduction in Pakistan.

Non-Farm growth and National Betterment:

However, in addition to the direct impact of agricultural growth on poverty reduction, there is also a much larger indirect effect through the links between agriculture and non-farm growth in rural areas. Non-farm growth is closely linked with agricultural growth since peasant farmers spend a large portion of their incremental income on locally produced non-agricultural goods thus generating employment and incomes in the adjoining areas. The increased demand for non-agricultural lead to much longer increase in employment, which is a key vehicle for poverty reduction. Available information also points to a much larger increase in employment, which is a key vehicle for poverty reduction. Available information that points to increasing the importance of non-farm incomes in rural Pakistan are household, transfer income, crop income, rental income and livestock income. Livestock is a particularly important source of income for the poor households, especially for endless and small landowners, dependent on this sector.

Q6. Write a note on agriculture and agricultural products of Pakistan.

Agriculture:

Pakistan is an agricultural country. Most of the people here are engaged in this occupation. It is the largest segment of Pakistan's economy. It contributes 26% gross domestic products. Agricultural sector has great importance in Pakistan because the economy of Pakistan is based on it. Allah Almighty has blessed Pakistan with fertile land where we are growing all types of crops.

Crops of Pakistan:

There are two types of crops in Pakistan.

(i) Rabi Crops:

The summer crops are called Rabi crops. These include wheat, barley, gram and oil seeds.

(ii) Kharif Crops:

The winter crops are called Kharif crops. These include rice, maize, cotton, sugarcane, sorghum & millet.

Kinds of Crops:

The above two types of crops are further divided into two kinds.

(i) Food Crops:

The crops which are used as food e.g. wheat, rice, maize, sorghum, pulses, barley, vegetable and fruits.

(ii) Cash Crops:

The crops which are exported for foreign exchange e.g. cotton, sugar cane, tobacco and oil seeds.

Cash Crops:

(i) Cotton:

Cotton is the biggest export of Pakistan. It is also called the silver fibre of Pakistan. It is mainly cultivated in Punjab and Sindh. Two types of cotton is sown in Pakistan. One is indigenous and the other is American cotton. A lot of textile industries have also been established in the country due to plenty of cotton.

(ii) Sugar Cane:

It is an important crop from which sugar is obtained. It is sown in all the four provinces. Its residue is used for making paper too. The province of NWFP is called the 'home of sugarcane'. Pakistan produces surplus sugarcane which is exported for foreign exchange.

(i) Tobacco:

Tobacco is mainly produced in NWFP especially in Peshawar and Mardan. It is used in cigarettes and cigars. Tobacco is also exported to other countries.

(ii) Oil Seeds:

Oil seeds are important crop of Pakistan. They are grown where there is abundance of water. The oil seeds include cotton seed, rapeseed, mustard, ground nuts, sesame, Lin and sunflower. Our vegetable oil industry uses these seeds. Still Pakistan imports 80% oil seeds from other countries.

Food Crops:

(i) Wheat:

It is the most important food crop of Pakistan. About $\frac{3}{4}$ of the total production of wheat is received from Punjab. After Punjab, Sindh produces plenty of wheat. We are self-sufficient in the production of wheat. Flour is the main by-product of wheat. Bread and other food items are prepared from flour.

(ii) Rice:

Rice is an important food crop of Pakistan and is largely grown in Pakistan. We are self-sufficient in the production of rice. We are also exporting it in large quantity. Especially Basmati rice of Pakistan have great demand in foreign countries.

(iii) Maize (Corn):

Pakistan is self-sufficient in the production of corn but it is not of good quality. It is a food crop and is also used as animal fodder. It is mostly found in NWFP where Mardan, Abbottabad, Mansehra, Swat and Peshawar are the main areas, while in Punjab, Faisalabad and Sahiwal are known for cultivation of maize.

(iv) Sorghum and millets:

It is not generally used as food but it is a part of animal feed. Pakistan is self-sufficient in the production of sorghum and millets but we donot export them. They are mostly grown in Punjab and Sindh.

(i) Pulses:

Different varieties of pulses are one of the main food crops of our country. Gram leads in the list of pulses and it is mainly grown in NWFP. Other varieties like lathyrus (Moong), lentis (masoor) and vetchling (mash) are grown more in Punjab.

(ii) Barley:

It is not grown in large areas. It is used in poor families and also as fodder of animals.

(iii) Vegetable & Fruits:

Pakistan is self-sufficient in the production of vegetables like potato, pumpkin, tomato, lady fingers, brinajl, spinach, onion, radish, pea, sugar beet, cabbage, carrot, etc. Potatoes and onions are exported too. A number of fruits and dry fruits are grown in Pakistan like grapes, apples, pomegranate, plum, apricot, pears, cherry, mango, dates, banana, water melon and melons, oranges, almond, pistachio, walnut, etc.

Q7. What are the agricultural problems of Pakistan?

Pakistan is an agricultural country. Agriculture is the main occupation of the people of Pakistan. Although a large number of food and cash crops are grown here still the production rate is less due to the following reasons.

Low Literacy Rate:

Majority of farmers are not educated due to the low literacy rate. They don't have any knowledge about modern farming and are still using traditional methods of cultivation. They have little knowledge about insecticides and fertilizers.

Increasing Number of Farmers:

There is a continuous increase in the number of farmers, but the process of bringing more area under cultivation is quite slow.

Non-Mechanized Cultivation:

Although the farmers of Pakistan are hardworking still the per acre yield is not increase. In fact, the farmers are not following mechanized cultivation. They depend on wooden plough and local seeds. Lack of financial resources is also hindrance in mechanical cultivation.

Limit of agricultural land:

The agricultural land of Pakistan is divided into two groups. The landlord group has vast area but as they do not cultivate themselves so the land is barren. The second group has canal-irrigated area which is not more than 12-15 acre per person.

Role of agricultural Department:

The agricultural department is also not playing its role effectively. As a result of the lack of co-ordination between the farmers and the staff of agriculture department the agricultural outputs suffer.

Soil Erosion:

The erosion of soil which removes the upper fertile crust of the earth is also responsible for low production.

Water Logging and Salinity:

Large canal areas of Punjab and Sindh are effected by water logging and salinity which is a serious setback to the fertility of land.

Fragmentation of Landholdings:

Fragmentation has divided the land into small holdings which restrict large scale production.

Insufficient means of Transport:

Due to the bad road condition a good quantity of food do not reach safely to market.

Difficulties in marketing of Corps:

The role of middleman also creates difficulty in marketing of crops and the farmers do not get full or proper price of their products. This disappoints the farmers, who then pay less attention to production.

Unsuitable Conditions:

The lack of medical facilities and bad living conditions in countryside the strength of farmer for more production is minimized.

Q8. What steps have been taken by the government to solve the agriculture problems in Pakistan?

Pakistan is an agricultural country. Therefore the government of Pakistan has taken a number of steps to solve the agricultural problems in the country. These steps are as follows:

(i) Educational Facilities:

- a) The government has extended educational facilities to the farmers through agriculture department in use of modern scientific methods.
- b) Pamphlets and leaflets to create awareness have been published.
- c) Radio and television programs on agriculture are broadcasted.
- d) An overall program of adult education has been introduced in rural areas.

(ii) Financial Assistance:

- a) Soft-term loans are provided for perching fertilizers equipment, seeds, etc.
- b) Loans for tube wells and tractors are also provided on easy installments.

(iii) Means of Irrigation:

- a) Artificial means of irrigation are being made more effective.
- b) Arrangements to eliminate water logging and salinity have been made.
- c) Canals and water courses are being lined.

(iv) Introduction of agriculture vocations:

- a) Vocations related to agriculture are promoted to reduce pressure of population on cultivated area.
- b) These supplementary professions also give opportunities to farmers to earn extra money.

(v) Land Reforms:

- a) Land reforms introduced in 1959, 1972 and 1977 have fixed a ceiling on land holdings of big land lords and have distributed surplus land among the landless farmers.
- b) Monopoly of landlords have been abolished.

(vi) Agricultural Institutions:

- a) Agricultural institutions such as agricultural universities and colleges have been setup in the country. Some of the institution are:
 - i. Agriculture university, Peshawar

- ii. Arid agriculture University, Rawalpindi
- iii. Agriculture University, Faisalabad
- iv. Agriculture University, Bahawalpur
- v. Agriculture University, Tandojam
- vi. Agriculture College, Multan
- vii. Agriculture Institute, Dokri (Larkana)

These institutes are engaged in finding the means to increase agricultural production of the country.

Q9. Write a note on natural resources of Pakistan.

Resources are defined as a mean of meeting a need particularly an economic or social need of people. The term usually refers to natural resources which are largely unchanged materials and that are highly valuable to people and used in variety of ways.

All living beings have deep relationship with earth. Earth provides everything in form of water and minerals. These resources are created by Allah and they are called natural resources.

Pakistan is rich in natural resources. They are very important for the development and prosperity of a country. The important natural resources are.

Soil:

The upper layer of earth which is composed of different thin rock particles and is helpful in growth of vegetation and plants is called soil. Generally soil is a compound of salt, silt and clay.

Soil of Pakistan is of red, white and black colour. There is a variety of soil in Pakistan.

Soils of Pakistan:

- i. Indus Basin soils
- ii. Mountain soils
- iii. Alluvial soils of the flood plains
- iv. Alluvial soils of Bar uplands
- v. Soils of the piedmont plains
- vi. Desert soils
- vii. Soils of Potwar Plateau
- viii. Soils of Western Highlands

Water:

Water is a basic need of life. Human beings, animals and plants cannot live without water. In Pakistan its importance is more than ordinary due to the agrarian nature of economy. The share of agricultural sector in the gross domestic product (GDP) of Pakistan is about 25%. The increasing pressures of population and industrialization have already placed greater demands on water.

Air/Wind:

Air is very important for existence of life because all living things respire through air.

Forests:

Forests are extensive continuous areas of land dominated by trees. The desired level of forests is 25% of total land of a country. In Pakistan only 4.5% land is under forest. Area wise and on basis of climate, there are following types of forests.

- i. Alpine forests
- ii. Coniferous forests
- iii. Sub – tropical dry forests
- iv. Tropical thorn forests
- v. Riverine or bela
- vi. Mangrove forests
- vii. Plantation

Importance of forests:

- i. It is important natural resources.
- ii. They help in reduction of water logging.
- iii. They make the weather pleasant.
- iv. They are useful in making medicines.
- v. They are a source of wild life.
- vi. They are a main source of fire wood.
- vii. They add beauty to land scape.
- viii. They provide recreation.
- ix. They act as natural pasture.

- x. They help in reduction of Carbon dioxide.

Minerals and power energy sources:

Power resources play a vital role in the industrial and economic development of a country. Pakistan is blessed with these power resources. They are:

- i. Thermal power
- ii. Hydro power
- iii. Atomic energy
- iv. Solar energy

While minerals are the natural wealth found under the ground. They play a significant role in the economy and progress of any country. There are three main types of minerals found in Pakistan.

- i. Power resource mineral : oil, gas, coal
- ii. Metallic mineral : iron, chromite, copper
- iii. None metallic mineral : salt, limestone, gypsum and marble

Five Year Plans

- i. 1955 – 1960 4863 total million rupees
- ii. 1960 – 1965 10606 total million rupees
- iii. 1965 – 1970 133204 total million rupees
- iv. 1970 – 1978 75544 total million rupees
- v. 1978 – 1983 163619 total million rupees
- vi. 1983 – 1988 295000 total million rupees
- vii. 1988 – 1993 350000 total million rupees
- viii. 1993 – 2008

Q3. Write a detailed note on United Nations Organization. Ans. United Nations Organization:

After the end of the First World War, it was realized that how horrible and destructive this war was for the mankind and its coming generation. For securing the future from the devastation of the war, some big countries founded League of Nations nevertheless; it could not achieve the goal for which League of Nations was established. In other words, despite the existence of League, the Second World War took place which proved more destructive and dangerous for the common man on the world level. The atomic experiment was carried in this war which eliminated the two cities of Japan, Hiroshima and Nagasaki from the surface.

The nations which emerged as the big nations of the world just after the Second World War, to protect the future from another World War, laid the foundation of the United Nations Organization on October 24, 1945 so that all the nations of the world could peacefully work for their social and economic prosperity. There were a few countries which acquired the membership of UNO but the number of the members increased rapidly and today, United Nations Organization is the biggest institution of the world.

The aims and objects of the United Nations Organization can be referred as under:

- i. To make efforts for the peace and security at the global level.
- ii. To promote mutual security and well being on the world basis so that the social, political, economic and cultural problems of the world may be solved peacefully.
- iii. To provide the guarantee of basic human rights irrespective of colour and creed, language, religion and sex and to respect human liberty.
- iv. To take steps for providing protection to the world peace by eliminating racial and partial incidents and to solve the international disputes according to the international laws.
- v. Respecting the mutual freedom and sovereignty, promotion to the friendly relations on the basis of equality.
- vi. Avoiding the interference in the internal affairs of one another.

Main Institutions of United Nations Organization:

United Nations Organization is the combined institution of more or less all the countries of the world therefore; it has created its various small organizations so that the vast objectives of UNO could be achieved. The details of these institutions are given below:

General Assembly:

All the member countries of UNO are the members of its General Assembly also therefore; it is the biggest institution at the world forum. The annual meeting of the General Assembly is called every year at its head office New York. Every country can send her 5 representatives in this meeting. Apart from this, an extra ordinary meeting can also be called upon at the request of any member country she needs. The matters presented in the General Assembly, may be of two natures; the common matters and the specific matters. If the matter is of common nature, the Assembly can decide on the basis of simple majority of votes but in case of specific matters, two third majority votes are required. If the subsidiary of UNO, the Security Council is unable to tackle any problem, the General Assembly could transfer the same to itself to decide. The General Assembly, to decide upon the problems, constitutes committees and on the basis of the reports of these committees the decisions are taken.

Security Council:

The Security Council of UNO is held responsible to maintain peace at the global basis. Five members of this council are permanent including Great Britain, France, America, Russia and China. These permanent members have the veto power. The decision in this council is taken on the basis of votes. The temporary members are elected for the tenure of 2 years. The Security Council is empowered to consider any matter which it deems necessary to protect the global peace and order. The meeting of Security Council could be called upon the request of every member country.

International Court:

This is the biggest legal institution of the world consisting upon the 15 judges. These judges are appointed by consultation and consent of both General Assembly and Security Council. The quorum of the judges to hear any matter is completed when out of 15 judges, 9 are present. The judges of the International Court are appointed for the period of 8 years but one third of this number is retired after every 3 years. The chairman is appointed by 15 judges amongst themselves. If the equal votes in favour and opposition of any matter are cast, the chairman uses his casting vote for the final verdict, the head quarter of the International Court is situated at the Hague; the capital of Holland.

United Nations Education, Scientific and Cultural Organization:

This world organization was established in November 1946 with the following objectives:

- i. To promote education, science and culture amongst all the member countries.

i. South Asian Association for Regional Cooperation (SAARC)

ii. Regional Cooperation for Development (RCD) Ans. SAARC:

The organization which, after the Second World War, came into being for the regional cooperation. South Asian Association for Regional Cooperation (SAARC) is the most new emerged on the international scene. Prior to establishment of SAARC. The seven countries including Pakistan, India, Bangladesh, Sri Lanka, Nepal, Bhutan and Maldives, had raised the international problems before the World Organizations. These organizations included UNO, Nonaligned Movement, Common Wealth etc, but there was no exclusive organization for raising the common problems belonging to the South Asian countries due to the differences prevailing in these countries including mutual wars. Consequently, these seven countries, for the mutual cooperation in the economic, social, scientific and cultural fields, established SAARC in December 1985.

Objectives of SAARC:

SAARC was founded to achieve the following aims and objectives:

- i. Maximum promotion to the shipping amongst these seven countries.

ECO:

The name of Regional Cooperation for Development was changed in July 1966 and the new name of RCD is ECO (Economic Cooperation Organization)

Q6. Write a note on the Kashmir issue?

Pakistan had to face a sea of troubles and toils right after its birth. There was a long trial of trials; however the most important of these was the dispute of Jammu and Kashmir.

Location of the State of Jammu and Kashmir:

The state of Jammu and Kashmir is situated in the North of Pakistan. It was the largest princely state in the sub-continent. This state is contours to Pakistan, China, Tibet and Afghanistan.

Population of the State:

The total population of the State Jammu and Kashmir was 4 million according the census of 1941.

Area of the State:

The area of the state was 84471 sq. km.

A Muslim State:

The state of Jammu and Kashmir is predominantly a Muslim state with Muslims being majority in the area.

Kashmir and Dogra Rajas:

The British Government sold the whole area of the state to the Dogra Raja, Gulab Singh for Rs. 75 lac only in the year 1846. The Raja and his successors played havoc with the Muslims of the state. The Muslims were crushed socially, economically and culturally.

Freedom Movement in Jammu Kashmir:

The struggle for independence from the Dogra atrocities started much before the Pakistan movement. The Raja restarted the freedom fighters with an iron hand but spirit for freedom can never be crushed through atrocity. The Kashmiri's even today are struggling to win the destination of freedom. They aspire for annexation with Pakistan "Kashmir banay ga Pakistan" is the main slogan of Kashmiri people.

Kashmiri ties with Pakistan:

The state of Jammu and Kashmir is very close to Pakistan both on religious as well as geographical grounds. Most of the rivers that irrigate the soil of Pakistan flow from Kashmir. The Kashmir is emotionally attached with Pakistan. Therefore they passed the Raja to join Pakistan.

Fake Annexation of Kashmir with India:

Raja did everything to crush the freedom movement of the Kashmiri people. He forced to slaughter 2 lac Kashmiri but the movement got momentum with the passage of time. Being unable to handle the situation in Kashmir, the Raja requested the India to come to his rescue. Indian government offered on the condition to get Raja's signature on the document of annexation. Raja utterly refused and the Indian government prepared a fake document of annexation which said that the state of Jammu and Kashmir had annexed with India.

Azad Kashmir:

The Kashmir people did not lose heart even in such a grim situation. They kept on fighting with the Indian army for their cause until they got liberated a large area of Kashmir. This area is under the control of Pakistan and is called Azad Jammu Kashmir.

The Interference of the Security Council:

Soon India got frightened of the Kashmiri freedom frenzy. When the situation became tense on the line of control, the Indian government ought to help of the Security Council of the United Nations. The Security Council intervened and passed two resolutions.

Two Resolutions of the Security Council:

The Security Council passed the following resolutions:

- Both the parties (Pakistan and India) were advised to accept cease-fire.
- The dispute of Kashmir must be resolved according to the aspirations of the people. For this purpose plebiscite was not be held.

The Kashmiri freedom fighters co-operated with the Security Council to bring about peace.

Two wars between Pakistan and India over the Kashmir Issue.

The armed struggle stopped in Kashmir on Security Council's promise of holding a plebiscite. But unfortunately Security Council could do nothing in face of the Kashmiri interests of the major powers. The plebiscite could not be held and the Kashmir is were deprived of their basic rights. Pakistan was denied justice. This tyranny led to two wars between India and Pakistan. The wars resulted in nothing but blind bloodshed. Security Council passed more resolutions but nothing was done practically.

Conclusion:

The dispute of Jammu and Kashmir has not been resolved since many decades. India has sent large number of army personnel in the valley of Kashmir who are writing chapters of tyranny on the annals of the history. The problem of Kashmir is still pending on the agenda of the United Nations. Every now and then, many resolutions are passed but these resolutions proved nothing but lip service.

Q8. Write a detailed note on Pakistan and the Muslim World. Ans. Introduction:

Pakistan emerged on the world map on 14th August 1947 on the basis of two nation theory and Islamic Ideology.

Islamic Principles:

As an Islamic state Pakistan believes in the spirit of brother hood. This principle of Islamic society gives us an opportunity to deal the Muslims all over the world as our brothers. Inspite of geographical, social and status differences we believe that all Muslims are brothers to one another.

Principle of Foreign Policy:

According to the foreign policy of Pakistan it is important to have better, positive and strong relationship with all the Muslim states. It is a policy of Pakistan to be aware of the difficulties of the Muslim world and reach for their help in crisis. The crisis may be natural disasters or any foreign attack.

Pakistan and Kashmiri Brother:

Right from 1948 when the Indian Army started ruthless killing of Muslims in the valley. Pakistan is providing complete help to their Kashmiri brothers according to its policy. Inspite of two wars in 1965 and 1971-72 and continued tension at the borders, Pakistan hasn't changes its policy towards the independence and freedom of Kashmiri Muslims.

Palestine Problems:

In 1969, the Israel forces set "Al-Aqsa" mosque on fire against which Pakistan felt very sad keeping in view the circumstances. Pakistan not only supported Palestine but also took an active part for establishment of organization of Islamic conference (OIC) to restore the status and dignity of Muslims all over the world. In 1947 Pakistan hosted the 2nd Islamic summit conference held at Lahore.

Attitude towards Iran-Iraq war:

In mid 1980's the two Muslim countries Iraq and Iran had gone for war against which Pakistan played a very positive and natural role.

Gulf Crisis:

In August 1990 Iraq invaded Kuwait claiming that Kuwait was once the territory of Iraq. Kuwait being the member of UNO sought their help. UNO force reached and gave deadline to Iraqi president Saddam Hussain. Once again Pakistan played a neutral role.

Pakistan and NAM:

NAM is an important international body which came into existence in April 1955 in Indonesia. Pakistan is an active member of it and is on fore front in the development of peaceful environment in the world.

Pakistan and OIC:

OIC was established in the year 1969 against Israeli aggression in the land of Palestine. Right from that period Pakistan is a regular member and has always promoted its aims and objectives which are:

- i. To unite Muslims.
- ii. To promote greater harmony and co-operation.
- iii. To protect and project their interest and culture.

Conclusion:

Pakistan is a leading country of the third world which has yet to cover the stages of its development but at any stage if a Muslim country is in trouble. Pakistan has played a leading and prominent role to up lift Muslim brothers. The Libyan leader Col. Moammar Gaddafi has rightly said: "Pakistan is a fort of Islam".
